County Station On 'Inch' Lines Enters Fifth Month

The Mt. Sterling compressor station on Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation's Big Inch pipe line system celebrated its fifth month of operation Monday. Constructed last year at a cost of approximately $1,010,000, this station serves the Big Inch and Little Inch natural gas pipe lines which cross Pickaway County.

Known as Station Number 17, it is located on the site of a wartime oil pumping station two miles south of Five Points. Covering 18 acres of land along the pipe line right-of-way the station has been converted from oil to gas transportation by the installation of new equipment.

The two main buildings house 10 centrifugal compressors each driven by a 1250 horsepower high speed electric motor. It takes 9320 kilowatts of electric power to drive these motors, and at top capacity the 10 units together push 488 million cubic feet of natural gas a day through the lines at a pressure of approximately 750 pounds per square inch.

The centrifugal compressors or blowers, as the engineers call them, are a postwar development. They are being used for the first time on the Big Inch System for the long distance transmission of natural gas. The "blowers" at the Mt. Sterling station are deceptively small machines.

They consist of a heavy round steel case inside of which a special alloy steel rotor about the size of a bicycle wheel, but weighing 750 pounds, revolves at the rate of 3600 revolutions per minute.

Inside the rotor are deep vanes which catch the incoming gas, compress it, and whirl it on through a connecting pipe to the next blower. Axle bearings on the blowers are protected against gas leakage by an ingenious sealing system in which oil is circulated constantly at a pressure higher than that of the gas. There are 1300 gallons of high grade hydraulic oil in the Mt. Sterling station's system. It is filtered constantly just like the oil in a car.

Near the main station buildings is a battery of steel tanks about 11 feet long and two feet in diameter. These are known as separators or "scrubbers." Before the natural gas goes to the compressor building it is piped into the "scrubbers" where it is washed in an oil bath to remove liquids, dirt, and other impurities. Not only the gas is scrubbed, at periodic intervals the pipe lines themselves are cleaned by an interesting process.

Cleaning pipe lines internally when they are buried in the ground has always been a problem to the gas industry. The normal procedure is to shut off the gas at a certain point, dig up the line at points about 15 miles apart and cut it in two.

Then a device called a scraper, or "pig" as it is known to the pipeliners, is put in at one end; the line is closed after it; and the gas turned on. Pressure blows the pig through the line and out the open end 15 miles away. This is a difficult, expensive, time-consuming business which wastes considerable gas and interrupts service. A new method does away with these disadvantages.

At the Mt. Sterling compressor station, and at other stations on the pipe lines is a device called a scraper trap. Developed originally for oil pipe lines, traps have never before been used for natural gas lines. The trap is a concrete-

Rescue Work Ends As Tot Is Found Dead

Kathy Fiscus' Body Removed From Well; Drowning Hinted

SAN MARINO, Cal., April 11—The great rescue operation for little Kathy Fiscus was at a close in the bleakness of death today.

The epic venture, which would have cost at least $250,000 if it had been conducted on a commercial basis, ended in vain late last night.

Heroic drillers, sand hogs, hard-rock miners and engineers who risked their lives and labored until, in some instances, they dropped in their tracks, reached the child 96 feet down in the black abyss of a 230-foot abandoned well—only to find that she was dead.

The tot's family physician, Dr. Robert McCullock, lowered into the 94-foot escape shaft that had been bored in two feverish days, reported that little Kathy had been dead since shortly after she had slipped into the 14-inch hole while playing in a field Friday afternoon.

She had died, in other words, even before the mammoth rescue operations got under way, a venture whose intense drama gripped the nation and brought millions of prayers for the safety of the entombed child.

OFFICIAL announcement of Kathy's death was made by one of Dr. McCollock's associates, Dr. Paul Hanson.

Speaking over a police microphone he gave out the tragic news:

"Dr. McCullock has notified us from the bottom of the pit that little Kathy is dead."

His words were addressed to 15,000 tensed spectators forming a solid bank around "Operation Rescue."

There was a death-like silence for a moment. Then racking sobs. And hundreds of those in the vast throng bowed their heads in prayer.

Dr. Hanson, the surgeon who attended Mrs. Fiscus when Kathy was born, continued:

"The family (David Fiscus and his wife, Alice) has been notified and now we are informing you. For the sake of the family and the hundreds of people who have been working since the accident, we ask you to please leave the scene of the tragedy as quickly as possible.

"If this had been your child, you would not want a large crowd around."

The people showed no sign of moving. The surgeon resumed speaking:

"Here is a message from the family: 'There is nothing we can

City Storm Sewers Called Death Traps

As the news of the death of 3-year-old Kathy Fiscus swept the nation Monday Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway County health commissioner, opened a campaign to prevent a similar mishap here.

The 3-year-old girl met her death after falling into a deep, narrow well shaft in San Marino, Calif., Friday.

Blackburn cited Monday that the situation in Circleville was on a smaller scale, but no less dangerous.

"I refer to the storm sewers found on nearly every block," stated the commissioner.

"This morning I made a trip over town to measure how wide the openings are, and found some of them more than 10 inches wide, wide enough for a small child to slip into.

"For instance, the sewer opening at Washington and Franklin streets is nine inches wide, while at Court and Union streets there is a sewer with a wooden cover which is more than 10 inches wide."

The doctor was strong in his feeling, citing that on a rainy or snowy day it would be easy for a running youngster to slip down into the sewer and drown.

* * *

"THOSE SEWERS become nearly filled with water when it rains," he declared. "If a kid should happen to slip into one, what's to prevent him from drowning?"

Blackburn suggested that Circleville mothers take a yardstick with them and measure the opening of the sewers nearest them.

"There's no use fooling around until the horse gets out of the barn," the doctor said.

"I suggest that a single iron bar be welded mid-way between the sewer openings, eliminating the possibility of the death-traps.

"Cost would be relatively light compared to the savings," he concluded.

Commies Blamed For Train Wreck

MADRID, April 11 — Radio Madrid charged last night that the derailment of the Barcelona-Madrid express Feb. 13, in which 29 persons were killed, was caused by Communist agents acting under orders from the Cominform.

The Spanish government radio said the Cominform has ordered Communist agents to begin a widespread campaign of violence and sabotage.

Radio Moscow Raps Yankees

MOSCOW, April 11 — Radio Moscow has charged that American troops acted like "colonizing bullies" and commited major crimes while serving in Austria, Greece, Turkey, Iran, Japan and Southern Korea.

An English language broadcast last night charged "the appearance of American military units in various countries under the pretext of friendly visits always have been accompanied by wild riots and fighting."

The "scandalous behavior," the Russian radio declared, is due to the American soldiers fancying themselves "men of a higher race."

Truman Note Is Readied

Quick Pact OK To Be Asked

WASHINGTON, April 11—The White House announced today that President Truman will send the North Atlantic defense treaty to the U. S. Senate tomorrow with a 1,000-word message asking quick ratification.

Meanwhile, Senate Foreign Relation Chairman Connally, (D) Tex., declared that the European arms program under the North Atlantic pact must be "coordinated' with other spending.

Mr. Truman's decision to accompany presentation of the pact with a strong message citing the urgent reasons for speedy ratification represented a change in his original plan.

The chief executive decided that the message should set forth in emphatic detail his views on action on the historic defense agreement.

Three hundred citizens, it was noted, addressed to the President and Congress a letter asking rejection of the pact and calling upon Mr. Truman to start negotiations with Russia to end cold war differences.

45 Injured As Gas Is Ignited By Spark During Sunday Mass

MARION, S. D., April 11—Six persons were counted dead today and 45 injured when an electric spark touched off a tank of butane gas in St. Mary's Catholic church here yesterday.

The explosion rocked the church 10 minutes before the Rev. Joseph Zimmerman was to begin mass. A shower of stone and timber fell on the worshippers and the church was demolished.

Father Zimmerman was pinned under a giant timber from the roof. He had entered the church moments before. A long spike from the beam pierced his side but his injuries were reported not serious.

The dead were listed as Charles McGinnis, Mr. and Mrs. John Marso, Mrs. George Bittner, Mr. Phil Luke and Mrs. Peter Reding.

The injured, two of whom were reported in serious condition, were taken to hospitals in Mitchell, Yankton and Sioux Falls, S. D. Some, however, were treated in nearby Marion homes.

The small farm community of 800 persons in the southeast corner of South Dakota was rocked by the disaster. Most of the parishoners were close friends and many were related.

ONLY THE TOWER of the Gothic designed church remained standing. The four walls were flattened.

Officials said they believe an electric spark ignited a tank of butane gas in the basement of the church, which was used to heat the structure.

Hubert Luke, a young farmer seated in his pew in the rear of the church, said that two minutes after he knelt to pray he felt a terrific explosion.

He continued:

"I had noticed that there were about 75 persons already seated. Many of the people were still talking to their friends outside. Miraculously, I was uninjured.

Dock Walkout Plagues London

LONDON, April 11—Some 15,000 London dock workers and stevedores went on strike this morning, leaving 30 ships, including some loaded with food, standing idle in the Thames estuary.

The walkout was called to protest the dismissal of 33 dock workers who were laid off on the grounds of being "surplus."

The strike, which is also holding up several vessels loaded with export cargoes, threatened to completely paralyze Thames shipping, and seriously hamper Britain's vital foreign commerce.

Pro-Ringing Faction Now Holds Edge

A decision to permit the old fire bell atop City Hall to sound out the location of a blaze apparently was gaining ground among councilmen Monday. Against three who would prefer the bell to tap out a general alarm stand four who insist the exact location should be given.

The compromise suggestion to permit the bell to ring out the location of the blaze after firemen are well on their way to the scene was put forth by Councilman Ray Anderson Friday night.

He is supported by Councilmen Fred Brown and Ralph Wallace who indicated Monday they would prefer to hear the bell ring out the location of a fire.

Councilman Boyd Horn made clear his desire to have the location sounded during the last council meeting, when he referred it as a "safety measure."

The remaining three councilmen, Robert Adkins, E. L. Montgomery and Ray Cook, seem equally certain that if the bell is sounded at all it should give only a general alarm.

President of Council Luther Bower, who is permitted to vote only in case of a tie, agreed with Adkins and Montgomery that a

The sheriff said he is investigating several clews, "all of which look good."

2,000 Said On List For Death

Yank Aide Among Slated Victims

ATHENS, April 11—The Greek government announced today the arrest of 80 alleged Communists accused of a vast plot to assassinate 2,000 political and military figures including Maj. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, chief of the U. S. mission in Greece.

The plot assertedly included plans for terrorist action against headquarters of the American mission and various Greek government buildings.

Seven high government officials were said to have been marked down for death along with Van Fleet.

These included Constantine Tsaldaris, deputy premier and foreign minister; Gen. Alexander Papagos, commander-in-chief of the Greek army, and Napoleon Zervas, right-wing leader and minister of public order.

Constantin Rentis, another Greek minister, announced that all files and weapons of the would-be killers have been seized. He charged the band with committing several murders and terrorist acts in Athens last year.

The Greek ministry of public order announced that the plot was discovered on March 11, just a month ago today. It said that today's arrests were the result of confessions of several persons seized immediately after the scheme became known.

The ministry announcement said that police investigations, which have been carried on since March 11, ascertained that the plotters intended to kill Van Fleet by pitching hand grenades into his automobile from a truck.

Among those reported arrested today was Stelio Anastassiades, a member of the Greek Politburo and Achileas Blanas, chief Communist Party organizer for the Athens district.

He said that all 80 persons seized are charged with "many" acts of "terrorism" including attempts to blow up the American aid mission's garages.

The striking workers defied the strong government order and remained away from their jobs.

At the same time, the General Confederation of Labor, which controls the largest number of unions in Greece also demanded wage increases, and threatened to join the civil servant walkout unless the demands were granted.

THE ACTION came a day after the Greek inner cabinet gave special powers to all ministers to draft into the armed forces striking civil servants who fail to return to duty.

Such action would make the strikers liable to military court martial for failing to return to work.

The inner cabinet's crackdown came after the civil servants, who are demanding a wage increase, rejected an offer of free food supplies valued at $12 monthly for three months.

Work stoppages also have been voted by civil servants in Northern Greece, effective today, and the Railway Men's Union of Northern Greece, effective Wednesday.

OLEO MEASURE IS DELAYED

Conservation Bill Ready For Study In Legislature

COLUMBUS, April 11—The unified conservation bill will be given priority over the more controversial oleo bill by the house calendar committee tonight as the Ohio legislature begins its 15th week of sessions.

The committee is expected to place the conservation bill on Wednesday's calendar. The measure consolidates all conservation activities in one new "department of natural resources" under a $10,000-a-year director appointed by the governor for a six-year term.

The department would include divisions of lands, water, wildlife, forestry, parks, geological survey and beach erosion.

The oleo bill, meanwhile, is being held over for another week at least. It has been more than a month since the measure passed the senate by an 18-14 vote.

It was reported that the oleo bill delay was occasioned by two factors. One was the desire to get the conservation bill supported by leaders of both parties but bitterly opposed by so-called sportsmen's groups—out of the way before the shattered feelings of the losers in the oleo battle jeopardized its possible passage.

THE OTHER was a reported attempt to work out a compromise on the oleo measure. One house leader said the proposed compromise embraced two questions—first, either ban the serving of colored oleo in restaurants or require it to be served in triangular pats, and second, bar the use of oleo preservatives which now are permitted.

Meanwhile, the senate votes tonight on a joint resolution to establish a commission to investigate rural phone service. The house marks time with minor bills tonight, but tormorrow takes up the Christian Science bill—bitterly fought before its defeat in the last several sessions.

The $649 million budget comes in for its share of attention as the house finance committee begins the weeks-long task of holding hearings

Minimum Wage Parley Underway In Columbus

COLUMBUS, April 11—Witnesses advocating increases in the minimum wages prescribed for women and minors in the hotel and restaurant industries were presenting their case here today.

French Aerial Ladder Team Due With Circus Here Soon

Another imported foreign troupe was added to the 1949 cast of the Mills Bros. Circus over last weekend, with the signing of Les Rosettis, French performers on the revolving aerial ladders.

The latest additions to the "Champions of All Nations" assemblage highlighting the circus' 10th jubilee tour opening here under the Booster Club next Saturday climax their midair performance by hanging from toes and heels on the whirling ladder.

They will arrive at the circus' Pickaway Fairgrounds Winter quarters in a day or so, joining the Wallabie Girls, English acrobats; aerialist Mlle. Niklaus, and the Valenciano Troupe, high perch artists who are of Spanish descent and hail from Zurich, Switzerland. These three acts arrived Friday and Saturday.

The Wallabies and the Cathalas, Danish rolling globe performers who were outstanding successes with the circus in '48, gave area residents an eye-opening preview of Circus Day over the weekend as they whirled through brisk drills at the Coliseum.

GIRLS OF THE circus' swinging ladder ballet also went through warmup workouts in preparation for the season opening. In the ring barn, other visitors watched Capt. Bert Wallace and Capt. Spencer Huntley put troupes of horses, ponies, performing dogs, riding monkeys and Big Burma, the elephant, through their routines.

Saturday night, shoppers in the downtown area also had an introduction to this year's show—an introduction with British accent. Several of the Wallabies, along with Mr. and Mrs. Digger Pugh, managers of the troupe of feminine whirling dervishes, were interviewed by Booster Club members over the public address system from the ticket wagon which was parked at Court and Main.

Hit-Skip Reward Total Boosted Up To $350 Now

Impetus was added to a drive to find a hit-skip driver who caused the death of a six-year-old Ashville boy March 26 with the addition of $25 to reward money offered for information leading to his arrest. Total reward money is now $350.

Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff said he received a check from Ashville Women's Civic Club Saturday together with a letter asking that the money be used to increase the reward sum.

The sheriff said he is investigating several clews, "all of which look good."

He added that there have been many responses to his appeal for information leading to the apprehension of the hit-skip driver whose car struck down Paul Eldon Lawhun of Scioto street, Ashville.

The accident occurred as the Lawhun boy crossed Main street in Ashville

APRIL 1945 — APRIL 1949

ENTERING HIS FIFTH YEAR as the Nation's Chief Executive, President Harry S. Truman faces what may become one of the most momentous periods in modern history. Russia's behavior as the world's "problem child" has brought about the North Atlantic Defense Alliance, plus assurance that a staggering sum is to be spent for rearming Europe against a possible aggressor. At home the "fair deal" program, on which Truman made his famous one-man campaign, has met with varied opposition and approval in Congress. At left, President Truman is shown, serious faced, as he discusses an important document shortly after he took office on April 12, 1945, following the unexpected death of President Roosevelt. At right, he is shown at work four years later.

2,000 Said On List For Death

Yank Aide Among Slated Victims

ATHENS, April 11—The Greek government announced today the arrest of 80 alleged Communists accused of a vast plot to assassinate 2,000 political and military figures including Maj. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, chief of the U. S. mission in Greece.

The plot assertedly included plans for terrorist action against headquarters of the American mission and various Greek government buildings.

Seven high government officials were said to have been marked down for death along with Van Fleet.

Constantin Rentis, another Greek minister, announced that all files and weapons of the would-be killers have been seized. He charged the band with committing several murders and terrorist acts in Athens last year.

The Greek ministry of public order announced that the plot was discovered on March 11, just a month ago today. It said that today's arrests were the result of confessions of several persons seized immediately after the scheme became known.

The ministry announcement said that police investigations, which have been carried on since March 11, ascertained that the plotters intended to kill Van Fleet by pitching hand grenades into his automobile from a truck.

Among those reported arrested today was Stelio Anastassiades, a member of the Greek Politburo and Achileas Blanas, chief Communist Party organizer for the Athens district.

He said that all 80 persons seized are charged with "many" acts of "terrorism" including attempts to blow up the American aid mission's garages.

The striking workers defied the strong government order and remained away from their jobs.

At the same time, the General Confederation of Labor, which controls the largest number of unions in Greece also demanded wage increases, and threatened to join the civil servant walkout unless the demands were granted.

THE ACTION came a day after the Greek inner cabinet gave special powers to all ministers to draft into the armed forces striking civil servants who fail to return to duty.

Such action would make the strikers liable to military court martial for failing to return to work.

The inner cabinet's crackdown came after the civil servants, who are demanding a wage increase, rejected an offer of free food supplies valued at $12 monthly for three months.

Work stoppages also have been voted by civil servants in Northern Greece, effective today, and the Railway Men's Union of Northern Greece, effective Wednesday.

French Aerial Ladder Team Due With Circus Here Soon

Another imported foreign troupe was added to the 1949 cast of the Mills Bros. Circus over last weekend, with the signing of Les Rosettis, French performers on the revolving aerial ladders.

The latest additions to the "Champions of All Nations" assemblage highlighting the circus' 10th jubilee tour opening here under the Booster Club next Saturday climax their midair performance by hanging from toes and heels on the whirling ladder.

They will arrive at the circus' Pickaway Fairgrounds Winter quarters in a day or so, joining the Wallabie Girls, English acrobats; aerialist Mlle. Niklaus, and the Valenciano Troupe, high perch artists who are of Spanish descent and hail from Zurich, Switzerland. These three acts arrived Friday and Saturday.

The Wallabies and the Cathalas, Danish rolling globe performers who were outstanding successes with the circus in '48, gave area residents an eye-opening preview of Circus Day over the weekend as they whirled through brisk drills at the Coliseum.

GIRLS OF THE circus' swinging ladder ballet also went through warmup workouts in preparation for the season opening. In the ring barn, other visitors watched Capt. Bert Wallace and Capt. Spencer Huntley put troupes of horses, ponies, performing dogs, riding monkeys and Big Burma, the elephant, through their routines.

Saturday night, shoppers in the downtown area also had an introduction to this year's show—an introduction with British accent. Several of the Wallabies, along with Mr. and Mrs. Digger Pugh, managers of the troupe of feminine whirling dervishes, were interviewed by Booster Club members over the public address system from the ticket wagon which was parked at Court and Main.

Ticket sales, Boosters reported, are booming and John

OLEO MEASURE IS DELAYED

Conservation Bill Ready For Study In Legislature

COLUMBUS, April 11—The unified conservation bill will be given priority over the more controversial oleo bill by the house calendar committee tonight as the Ohio legislature begins its 15th week of sessions.

The committee is expected to place the conservation bill on Wednesday's calendar. The measure consolidates all conservation activities in one new "department of natural resources" under a $10,000-a-year director appointed by the governor for a six-year term.

The department would include divisions of lands, water, wildlife, forestry, parks, geological survey and beach erosion.

The oleo bill, meanwhile, is being held over for another week at least. It has been more than a month since the measure passed the senate by an 18-14 vote.

It was reported that the oleo bill delay was occasioned by two factors. One was the desire to get the conservation bill supported by leaders of both parties but bitterly opposed by so-called sportsmen's groups—out of the way before the shattered feelings of the losers in the oleo battle jeopardized its possible passage.

THE OTHER was a reported attempt to work out a compromise on the oleo measure. One house leader said the proposed compromise embraced two questions—first, either ban the serving of colored oleo in restaurants or require it to be served in triangular pats, and second, bar the use of oleo preservatives which now are permitted.

Meanwhile, the senate votes tonight on a joint resolution to establish a commission to investigate rural phone service. The house marks time with minor bills tonight, but tormorrow takes up the Christian Science bill—bitterly fought before its defeat in the last several sessions.

The $649 million budget comes in for its share of attention as the house finance committee begins the weeks-long task of holding hearings

Minimum Wage Parley Underway In Columbus

COLUMBUS, April 11—Witnesses advocating increases in the minimum wages prescribed for women and minors in the hotel and restaurant industries were presenting their case here today.

A nine-member minimum wage board appointed by State Industrial Relations Director Albert A. Woldman was holding a public hearing on the advisability of modifying state mandatory order number three in the state office building. The board is composed of three members each, representing the employers, employes and the public.

Former Industrial Relations Director William J. Rogers dismissed the recommendations of an earlier board which met in several stormy sessions.

The order which was effective say to fully thank the hundreds of people who have helped us in the search for Kathy. Some have gone home to much needed rest. Our heartfelt gratitude goes out to them for their sacrifices beyond belief."

One of the rescue workers, Paul Neiford, revealed that he jammed a crowbar through the old well casing above where Kathy was lodged Sunday morning and water ran out. The point of his disclosure was that she was covered with water.

His words tended to confirm a report the child dropped into the water from a higher level during the very first rescue attempts on Friday evening.

Chief's Favorite Mushroom Spot Is Invaded

Chief of Police William McCrady is reported to be somewhat of an authority on the common ascomycete, and an assiduous hunter of them.

The chief was considerably chagrined, therefore, when he learned Monday that members of the city service department had stolen a bit of his thunder and located half a dozen specimens of agraricus campestris in his own stamping ground.

When the mushrooms were shown to the chief and he was told they came from the alley behind the police station, he brushed the subject aside with an airy wave of his hand and turned the talks to matters piscatory.

Dairy Calf Study Features Meet

Second meeting of the year for Washington Hill Climbers 4-H Club took place in the home of Everett Thomas with 20 members being present.

The host gave a talk on selecting a dairy calf. For the next meeting at David Bolenders, Carl Martin will discuss feeding a dairy heifer and Joseph Blue will talk on selecting a beef steer. The next meeting will be April 20. Lunch was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

3 Men Feared Lost In Lake

TOLEDO, April 11—Ottowa County officials began a search today for three Lucas County men believed drowned in Lake Erie, a half mile from the entrance of the Toussaint river.

The three-Arnold Dunlap, 32, Clare Mason, 23, and Clarence Puls, 24, were believed dead after their fishing boat was found floating upside down late yesterday.

lined pit, equipped with control valves. Pipes from the main lines come into the pit and end in receptacles with bolted covers.

To clean the pipe line a Texas Eastern crew opens the receptacle in the trap at Mt. Sterling and puts in the scraper just as a submarine crew puts a torpedo in a torpedo tube.

Valves are opened and shut and the scraper is off on its journey to the next station at Somerset, 48 miles away. Propelled by the natural gas in the line, the scraper travels about 15 miles an hour and takes from three to four hours to make the trip.

At Somerset another crew removes the scraper from the trap there and also removes the dirt and scale the scraper has pushed ahead of it. Then the torpedo-like scraper is sent ahead on another trip.

Texas Eastern recently cleaned 2565 miles of its pipe line system this way in 6 months, and the company's engineers report that cleaning the inside of the pipe lines has increased their operating efficiency approximately 15 percent.

In charge of the Mt. Sterling station is Chief Operator Harold Underwood, who has worked with the Inch lines since 1942. He is assisted by a station staff of 19 men.

5 Leading Nazis Found Guilty In War Trials

NUERNBERG, April 11—Five one-time ministerial leaders of Adolf Hitler's regime were found guilty today of conspiring to aid in waging aggressive war. Sentences were withheld.

The group was headed by Baron Ernst von Weizsacker, one of the Nazi government's top diplomats who served for years as German ambassador to the Vatican.

The others were:

Weilhelm Keppler, economic adviser to the fuehrer from 1932 to 1945.

Paul Koerner, deputy to the late Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering in carrying out the four-year plan of Nazi armament.

Bell Battle Lines Drawn

general alarm was the answer to the dispute.

AS A RESULT, if a vote were taken Monday, the ancient bell would toll out its message and everyone would know where the fire was located.

However, council does not meet again until April 19. The ordinance calling for the bell to sound the location comes up for its third reading at that meeting. If one of the four advocating the location signal should be absent, the general alarm faction would win out since Bower would swing his vote their way.

Priniciple argument of the fire department against ringing the bell is that it attracts too many autoists on streets and in alleys near the scene of the fire.

Anderson's scheme for solving the problem cals for stringing a separate wire from the old box in the fire station to be bell.

When the signal comes in on the new signal equipment and is duly recorded on a tape, firemen would insert the proper notched disk on a shaft of a clockwork device in the old signal box.

ANDERSON said Fire Chief Talmer Wise agreed with him that the fire truck would be well on the way to the scene of a fire before the City Hall bell had finished tapping out the exact location signal.

Anderson's scheme differs from the compromise measure suggested earlier in the week to Bower, Montgomery and Adkins only in that it calls for sounding just a general alarm.

Divorce To Split Parents Of 5

A 17-year-old June marriage appeared doomed with the launching of a divorce petition in Pickaway County Common pleas court.

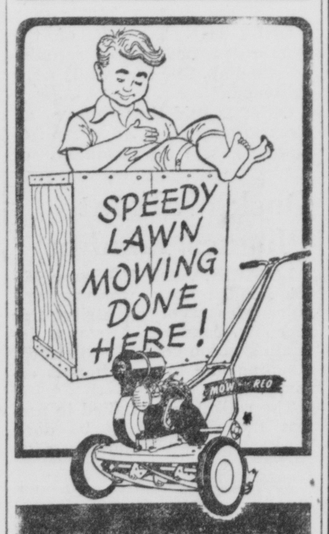

The petition was filed by Freda K. Kreider of Mt. Sterling Route 3, against her husband, Kenneth K. Kreider of Orient Route 1. Mrs. Kreider's petition claims the couple married June 27, 1931, in Circleville and have five children, ages 16, 15, 12, 8 and 5-years-old.

Her petition continues to accuse her spouse of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. It asks the court for divorce, custody of the children, alimony and support for the children.

VFW Men Given Demonstration Of Police Radio

Circleville Veterans of Foreign Wars officials were given a show Sunday afternoon following formal installation of officers.

At the installation ceremonies Jack Bivens took over the reins of the club as commander from Neil Leist, outgoing commander. Other installations were J. T. McCain as senior vice-commander; James Scott, junior vice-commander; Dean Winners. chaplain; Leist, quartermaster; James T. Shea, trustee; James Couch, judge advocate; and Dr. E. L. Montgomery, surgeon.

The "show" was presented by Sheriff Charles Radcliff and his deputies, who gave a demonstration of the two-way county radio system.

The VFW'ers played an instrumental part in the purchase of the system, footing half of the bill "as a gift to the people of the county." Circleville council footed the remainder of the cost.

THE DEPUTY radioed the sheriff to watch out for the truck, then in the meantime caught up with it himself. After reportedly listening to the trucker's story, the deputy let the man go.

The trucker continued into Circleville, where Radcliff stopped him and repeated his deputy's performance. The drama was unfolded over the radios to the VFW men.

Last report the VFW'ers heard was that the State Highway Patrol had apprehended the same driver further north, and had also released him.

Appointments made by the VFW Commander Bivens were: Fouch, service officer; Wilson Wood, adjutant; Charles Iles, officer of the day; Virgil Timmons, poppy sales; James Pierce, historian; R. G. Grose, Americanism and patriotism; and Lowell Ferguson, athletic director.

Tagless Auto Found To Be From Japan

The amazement was not directed at the visitors, both white Americans, so much as at the car which was proceeding boldly along Main street without license tags.

The sight aroused official curiosity to the extent that the driver was pressed for an explanation. It was all very simple, Police Chief William McCrady explained afterward.

The visitors are in the United States on official government business. The fact, said the chief, was duly recorded on a sticker fastened to the windshield. The Japanese occupation license tags had been sent back to Japan by government order.

The Boosters receive their greatest percentages from tickets sold in advance of Circus Day and will use funds to purchase new equipment and uniforms for Circleville high school band, which will take part in Saturday's opening circus performances.

The Wallabie Girls are to give a preview performance of their talents in Gold Cliff Park skating rink at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

Purpose of the guest-show is to boost advance ticket sales for the Booster circus Saturday.

James Callihan, in charge of ticket sales, said Monday that student ducats now in city and county schools, will be withdrawn Wednesday noon. There will be no 35-cent "special" tickets offered this year, he declared.

Future Planning Address Heard

Circleville high school's graduating class was given a lengthy lecture on "Planning Your Future" in the school Monday morning.

The lecture was presented by Dr. Guy Morse Bingham of Washington D. C., and dealt primarily with morals and marraige after the students graduate.

The senior called the lecturer back for a continuation of the discussion Monday afternoon.

Jury Drawing Due April 19

A total of 65 Pickaway County citizens will have their names picked out of the hat for grand and petit jury duty at 1 p. m. on April 19.

The first 15 of the names selected from the "wheel" will be the grand jurors for the May term of common pleas court, while the next 50 will be listed for petit jury duty.

Drawing for the juries will be Fred Nicholas and W. D. Heiskel, jury commissioners.

2 Estates Here Given Appraisals In Probate Court

Inventory and appraisement of two estates has set their total at $30,265.40 in Pickaway County probate court.

First of the appraisals was on the $15,764.15 Turney L. Pontius estate, consisting of $11,875 in real estate, $3,285 in personal goods and chattels, $444.45 in accounts receivable and $160 in bond and securities.

Appraisers to the estate were Bruce Valentine, Clyde Eaken and Howard Lane. Corilla U. Pontius has been appointed administratrix.

Second estate was the $14,501.25 Richard R. Struckman estate, which consists of $8,700 in real estate and $5,801.25 in personal goods and chattels.

The appraisal was made by Clyde Moody, Lewis Barch and Wayne Brown. Metta H. Struckman has been appointed administratrix.

Minimum Wage Parley Underway

July 1, 1936, and which became mandatory March 30, 1947, provides the following minimum wage scales for women and children in the food and lodging businesses:

In cities of 100,000 or more population, non-service workers, $10.50 per 48-hour week, service employes, $7.50; in cities with a population of from 5,000 to 100,000, none—service employees, $9, service employees, $7, and elsewhere, non-service, $8, and service workers, $6.25 per week.

Legion Members Attend Parley

Four Circleville American Legion members travelled to Chillicothe Sunday to attend the 7th district conference.

Headed by Commander Ed Ebert, the Circleville delegation listened to an address on "The Work of the Legion' by Ohio Commander Carl W. Smith.

Smith explained that the Legion was 100 percent against subversive groups such as communists, but was backing child welfare and rehabilitation to the hilt.

Other local legion members attending the session were Second Vice-Commander Harold Hill; Chaplain Blanche Motschman; and Henry Imler.

Tot Found Dead In Deep Well

say to fully thank the hundreds of people who have helped us in the search for Kathy. Some have gone home to much needed rest. Our heartfelt gratitude goes out to them for their sacrifices beyond belief."

One of the rescue workers, Paul Neiford, revealed that he jammed a crowbar through the old well casing above where Kathy was lodged Sunday morning and water ran out. The point of his disclosure was that she was covered with water.

His words tended to confirm a report the child dropped into the water from a higher level during the very first rescue attempts on Friday evening.

Chief's Favorite Mushroom Spot Is Invaded

Chief of Police William McCrady is reported to be somewhat of an authority on the common ascomycete, and an assiduous hunter of them.

The chief was considerably chagrined, therefore, when he learned Monday that members of the city service department had stolen a bit of his thunder and located half a dozen specimens of agraricus campestris in his own stamping ground.

When the mushrooms were shown to the chief and he was told they came from the alley behind the police station, he brushed the subject aside with an airy wave of his hand and turned the talks to matters piscatory.

Dairy Calf Study Features Meet

Second meeting of the year for Washington Hill Climbers 4-H Club took place in the home of Everett Thomas with 20 members being present.

The host gave a talk on selecting a dairy calf. For the next meeting at David Bolenders, Carl Martin will discuss feeding a dairy heifer and Joseph Blue will talk on selecting a beef steer. The next meeting will be April 20. Lunch was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

3 Men Feared Lost In Lake

TOLEDO, April 11—Ottowa County officials began a search today for three Lucas County men believed drowned in Lake Erie, a half mile from the entrance of the Toussaint river.

The three-Arnold Dunlap, 32, Clare Mason, 23, and Clarence Puls, 24, were believed dead after their fishing boat was found floating upside down late yesterday.

Vast armies of God's (Messengers) angels have gone before us. They are around us and above us. Not many are conscious of their presence. We should try to attune ourselves to the presence of unseen helpers, and work with them without fear. The Lord shall send his angel before thee.—Ge. 24:7.

'Inch' Lines In Fifth Month Here

lined pit, equipped with control valves. Pipes from the main lines come into the pit and end in receptacles with bolted covers.

To clean the pipe line a Texas Eastern crew opens the receptacle in the trap at Mt. Sterling and puts in the scraper just as a submarine crew puts a torpedo in a torpedo tube.

Valves are opened and shut and the scraper is off on its journey to the next station at Somerset, 48 miles away. Propelled by the natural gas in the line, the scraper travels about 15 miles an hour and takes from three to four hours to make the trip.

At Somerset another crew removes the scraper from the trap there and also removes the dirt and scale the scraper has pushed ahead of it. Then the torpedo-like scraper is sent ahead on another trip.

Texas Eastern recently cleaned 2565 miles of its pipe line system this way in 6 months, and the company's engineers report that cleaning the inside of the pipe lines has increased their operating efficiency approximately 15 percent.

In charge of the Mt. Sterling station is Chief Operator Harold Underwood, who has worked with the Inch lines since 1942. He is assisted by a station staff of 19 men.

5 Leading Nazis Found Guilty In War Trials

NUERNBERG, April 11—Five one-time ministerial leaders of Adolf Hitler's regime were found guilty today of conspiring to aid in waging aggressive war. Sentences were withheld.

The group was headed by Baron Ernst von Weizsacker, one of the Nazi government's top diplomats who served for years as German ambassador to the Vatican.

The others were:

Weilhelm Keppler, economic adviser to the fuehrer from 1932 to 1945.

Ernst Woermann, chief of the Nazi foreign ministry political department.

Paul Koerner, deputy to the late Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering in carrying out the four-year plan of Nazi armament.

Bell Battle Lines Drawn

general alarm was the answer to the dispute.

AS A RESULT, if a vote were taken Monday, the ancient bell would toll out its message and everyone would know where the fire was located.

However, council does not meet again until April 19. The ordinance calling for the bell to sound the location comes up for its third reading at that meeting. If one of the four advocating the location signal should be absent, the general alarm faction would win out since Bower would swing his vote their way.

Priniciple argument of the fire department against ringing the bell is that it attracts too many autoists on streets and in alleys near the scene of the fire.

Anderson's scheme for solving the problem cals for stringing a separate wire from the old box in the fire station to be bell.

When the signal comes in on the new signal equipment and is duly recorded on a tape, firemen would insert the proper notched disk on a shaft of a clockwork device in the old signal box.

ANDERSON said Fire Chief Talmer Wise agreed with him that the fire truck would be well on the way to the scene of a fire before the City Hall bell had finished tapping out the exact location signal.

Anderson's scheme differs from the compromise measure suggested earlier in the week to Bower, Montgomery and Adkins only in that it calls for sounding just a general alarm.

Divorce To Split Parents Of 5

A 17-year-old June marriage appeared doomed with the launching of a divorce petition in Pickaway County Common pleas court.

The petition was filed by Freda K. Kreider of Mt. Sterling Route 3, against her husband, Kenneth K. Kreider of Orient Route 1. Mrs. Kreider's petition claims the couple married June 27, 1931, in Circleville and have five children, ages 16, 15, 12, 8 and 5-years-old.

Her petition continues to accuse her spouse of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. It asks the court for divorce, custody of the children, alimony and support for the children.

Drunk Driver Is Fined $100

C. Marion Hayes, 22, of Laurelville was fined $100 and costs by Justice of the Peace Oscar Root Sunday. He was arrested by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Vern Pontious and accused of operating an auto on U. S. Route 22 while intoxicated.

The deputy said Hayes was picked up on Main street near the Eagle lodge. He was committed to Pickaway County jail when he failed to pay the fine.

VFW Men Given Demonstration Of Police Radio

Circleville Veterans of Foreign Wars officials were given a show Sunday afternoon following formal installation of officers.

At the installation ceremonies Jack Bivens took over the reins of the club as commander from Neil Leist, outgoing commander. Other installations were J. T. McCain as senior vice-commander; James Scott, junior vice-commander; Dean Winners, chaplain; Leist, quartermaster; James T. Shea, trustee; James Couch, judge advocate; and Dr. E. L. Montgomery, surgeon.

The "show" was presented by Sheriff Charles Radcliff and his deputies, who gave a demonstration of the two-way county radio system.

The VFW'ers played an instrumental part in the purchase of the system, footing half of the bill "as a gift to the people of the county." Circleville council footed the remainder of the cost.

THE DEPUTY radioed the sheriff to watch out for the truck, then in the meantime caught up with it himself. After reportedly listening to the trucker's story, the deputy let the man go.

The trucker continued into Circleville, where Radcliff stopped him and repeated his deputy's performance. The drama was unfolded over the radios to the VFW men.

Last report the VFW'ers heard was that the State Highway Patrol had apprehended the same driver further north, and had also released him.

Appointments made by the VFW Commander Bivens were: Fouch, service officer; Wilson Wood, adjutant; Charles Iles, officer of the day; Virgil Timmons, poppy sales; James Pierce, historian; R. G. Grose, Americanism and patriotism; and Lowell Ferguson, athletic director.

Tagless Auto Found To Be From Japan

The amazement was not directed at the visitors, both white Americans, so much as at the car which was proceeding boldly along Main street without license tags.

The sight aroused official curiosity to the extent that the driver was pressed for an explanation. It was all very simple, Police Chief William McCrady explained afterward.

The visitors are in the United States on official government business. The fact, said the chief, was duly recorded on a sticker fastened to the windshield. The Japanese occupation license tags had been sent back to Japan by government order.

French Team Is Awaited

Heiskell, club president, called attention to the fact reserved seats for both afternoon and evening performances are on sale now in Court-Main Restaurant.

The Boosters receive their greatest percentages from tickets sold in advance of Circus Day and will use funds to purchase new equipment and uniforms for Circleville high school band, which will take part in Saturday's opening circus performances.

The Wallabie Girls are to give a preview performance of their talents in Gold Cliff Park skating rink at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

Purpose of the guest-show is to boost advance ticket sales for the Booster circus Saturday.

James Callihan, in charge of ticket sales, said Monday that student ducats now in city and county schools, will be withdrawn Wednesday noon. There will be no 35-cent "special" tickets offered this year, he declared.

Future Planning Address Heard

Circleville high school's graduating class was given a lengthy lecture on "Planning Your Future" in the school Monday morning.

The lecture was presented by Dr. Guy Morse Bingham of Washington D. C., and dealt primarily with morals and marraige after the students graduate.

The senior called the lecturer back for a continuation of the discussion Monday afternoon.

Jury Drawing Due April 19

A total of 65 Pickaway County citizens will have their names picked out of the hat for grand and petit jury duty at 1 p. m. on April 19.

The first 15 of the names selected from the "wheel" will be the grand jurors for the May term of common pleas court, while the next 50 will be listed for petit jury duty.

Drawing for the juries will be Fred Nicholas and W. D. Heiskel, jury commissioners.

2 Estates Here Given Appraisals In Probate Court

Inventory and appraisement of two estates has set their total at $30,265.40 in Pickaway County probate court.

First of the appraisals was on the $15,764.15 Turney L. Pontius estate, consisting of $11,875 in real estate, $3,285 in personal goods and chattels, $444.45 in accounts receivable and $160 in bond and securities.

Appraisers to the estate were Bruce Valentine, Clyde Eaken and Howard Lane. Corilla U. Pontius has been appointed administratrix.

Second estate was the $14,501.25 Richard R. Struckman estate, which consists of $8,700 in real estate and $5,801.25 in personal goods and chattels.

The appraisal was made by Clyde Moody, Lewis Barch and Wayne Brown. Metta H. Struckman has been appointed administratrix.

Minimum Wage Parley Underway

July 1, 1936, and which became mandatory March 30, 1947, provides the following minimum wage scales for women and children in the food and lodging businesses:

In cities of 100,000 or more population, non-service workers, $10.50 per 48-hour week, service employes, $7.50; in cities with a population of from 5,000 to 100,000, none—service employees, $9, service employees, $7, and elsewhere, non-service, $8, and service workers, $6.25 per week.

Legion Members Attend Parley

Four Circleville American Legion members travelled to Chillicothe Sunday to attend the 7th district conference.

Headed by Commander Ed Ebert, the Circleville delegation listened to an address on "The Work of the Legion' by Ohio Commander Carl W. Smith.

Smith explained that the Legion was 100 percent against subversive groups such as communists, but was backing child welfare and rehabilitation to the hilt.

Other local legion members attending the session were Second Vice-Commander Harold Hill; Chaplain Blanche Motschman; and Henry Imler.

WIDE OPEN SPACES OF CONCRETE IS LIKED

Reporter Visits Great Southwest, Says She Prefers Life In Big City

By INEZ ROBB
INS Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 11—The nasal prairie flower in "buttons and bows," who keeps up her crooning entreaties to go back where the concrete grows, has the right idea.

Any resemblance between myself and the heroine of the average June-moon school of popular song is purely libelous. But I understand that "buttons and bows" character. The cactus hurts my toes, too.

What this country needs is good five-cent concrete and more of it. These past weeks, which I spent in the Southwest Texas and New Mexico, in particular, convinced me of the great virtue of concrete, say about a 12-inch layer over everything.

When I arrived at La Guardia Airport, I did not actually get down and kiss the concrete runway. That was my impulse, but I restrained myself.

Oh, I love the great open spaces of Texas where men are tall and the women are beautiful. But I am not accustomed to people so full of health, wealth and bounce. It is going to take me considerable time to rest up from the impact of so much vim, vigor and vitality.

GIVE ME Little Old New York, the great enclosed spaces where men are ulcerated wrecks and women are animated neurotics. Give me this metropolis with the shakes, where the wolf and the lounge lizards roam, where always is heard an equivocal word, and the skies they are clouded all day with soot, smoke and eau de gasoline.

Give me this city on the Hudson, dedicated to plain living and high thinking. Texas is a wonderful place. But it's too rich for my blood. I have heard of pigs in clover all my life, but I never saw a real pig with an orchid lei until I hit Houston and its Fat Stock Show.

The prize porker made his final appearance in the show ring waring a trellis of orchids that would have made Peggy Hopkins Joyce pale in her heyday.

In Dallas, the influence of Nieman-Marcus, the luxury store that even sells diamond did ee pins, is such that citizens in that area no longer say "trapped like a rat" but "trapped like a mink."

And in Dallas, also, I heard of a quick-thinking college girl who managed, under difficult circumstances to preserve intact her record for never being late or absent for school. Our heroine, the daughter of an oil baron, was on her way to school in her Cadillac convertible one morning when a tire blew out.

FACED WITH the awful possibility of being late to school for the first time in her life, our little girl showed the wit and ingenuity that makes Texans great. She ran three blocks to the Cadillac agency, bought a new car on the spot and drove off triumphantly to school, in time to get under the wire.

It is things like this that make Texas and Texans confusing to us outlanders, who have to work for our money instead of letting oil do it for us. It is also confusing to go to a state where every one stands up when an orchestra plays "I've Been Working on the Railroad," and offers to punch you puss off if you don't stand, too.

It took me some time to get hep to the fact that the Texas anthem, "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You," as sacred to them as "The Star Spangled Banner," is sung to that popular tune.

It also took me some time to grasp the fact that in Texas' capital, Austin, the legislative season is coincidental with the mating season. Ladies should include a baseball bat in their luggage.

Somebody really ought to write a Baedeker for tourists who plan to venture through Texas. It would simplify things to know that Texans, when they ask "what do you want to drink?", don't mean dealer's choice of a martini, old fashioned, daiquiri, gibson, manhattan or whisky sour.

When a Texan asks you what you wish to drink, he expects you to stand up like a man and say one of two things: 1) bourbon neat or (2) bourbon with tap water.

All in all, I had a wonderful time. Texans are the most kind, helpful and hospitable people in the world.

BUT CAN I help it if I like concrete? Can I help it if I don't want to be buried, dead or alive, on the lone prairie?

Can I help it if I'm no better than those tactless oafs who visit New York, and, after you have spent your last cent showing the town, kiss you off with the insulting bromide "New York is a wonderful place to visit, but I wouldn't live here if you gave me the place?"

Well sir, podner, Texas is a wonderful place to visit, but—

$90 Million Spent By Firm

CLEVELAND, April 11—The New York Central railroad spent about $90 million in 1948 for improvements in efficiency and service.

That was the highlight of the NYC's annual report, which states that more than $67 million of the total was used to purchase deisel engines, passenger and freight cars.

The rialroad concern had a net income of $14,727,096 in 1948, compared with $2,306,082 in 1947, with operating revenues reaching $779,860,775, compared with $703,340,527 the previous year.

Premium Steel Prices Dropping Further, Report

CLEVELAND, April 11—Magazie Steel reported today further drops in premium steel prices "in step with the slump in buying and the collapse in the scrap market."

The national metalworking publication stated that products affected by the downward revisions last week included billets, standard rails, plates, low-alloy high tensile sheets and hot-rolled sheets.

Steel declared:

"In some instances the reductions in prices have been particularly sharp, on plates as much as $8 per ton, for instance. It is noteworthy, that despite the cut in premium quotations standard mill schedules still are holding firmly."

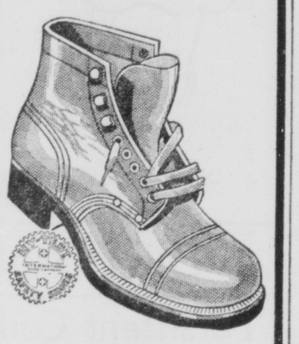

The magazine said evidence is accumulating that the mills' consumer quota system of distribution is on the way out, with many customers now not taking full quotas and with resale offerings appearing frequently.

Steel said salesmen again are beating the bushes in search of business, and added:

"So noticeable is the current downtrend in demand some trade authorities now are predicting a drop in ingot operations to 90 per cent or lower by early May."

Cuzumbies are relatives of the honey bear and their native habitat is Colombia, South America.

WIDE OPEN SPACES OF CONCRETE IS LIKED

Reporter Visits Great Southwest, Says She Prefers Life In Big City

By INEZ ROBB
INS Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 11—The nasal prairie flower in "buttons and bows," who keeps up her crooning entreaties to go back where the concrete grows, has the right idea.

Any resemblance between myself and the heroine of the average June-moon school of popular song is purely libelous. But I understand that "buttons and bows" character. The cactus hurts my toes, too.

What this country needs is good five-cent concrete and more of it. These past weeks, which I spent in the Southwest Texas and New Mexico, in particular, convinced me of the great virtue of concrete, say about a 12-inch layer over everything.

When I arrived at La Guardia Airport, I did not actually get down and kiss the concrete runway. That was my impulse, but I restrained myself.

Oh, I love the great open spaces of Texas where men are tall and the women are beautiful. But I am not accustomed to people so full of health, wealth and bounce. It is going to take me considerable time to rest up from the impact of so much vim, vigor and vitality.

GIVE ME Little Old New York, the great enclosed spaces where men are ulcerated wrecks and women are animated neurotics. Give me this metropolis with the shakes, where the wolf and the lounge lizards roam, where always is heard an equivocal word, and the skies they are clouded all day with soot, smoke and eau de gasoline.

Give me this city on the Hudson, dedicated to plain living and high thinking. Texas is a wonderful place. But it's too rich for my blood. I have heard of pigs in clover all my life, but I never saw a real pig with an orchid lei until I hit Houston and its Fat Stock Show.

The prize porker made his final appearance in the showring waring a trellis of orchids that would have made Peggy Hopkins Joyce pale in her heyday.

In Dallas, the influence of Nieman-Marcus, the luxury store that even sells diamond didee pins, is such that citizens in that area no longer say "trapped like a rat" but "trapped like a mink."

And in Dallas, also, I heard of a quick-thinking college girl who managed, under difficult circumstances to preserve intact her record for never being late or absent for school. Our heroine, the daughter of an oil baron, was on her way to school in her Cadillac convertible one morning when a tire blew out.

FACED WITH the awful possibility of being late to school for the first time in her life, our little girl showed the wit and ingenuity that makes Texans great. She ran three blocks to the Cadillac agency, bought a new car on the spot and drove off triumphantly to school, in time to get under the wire.

It is things like this that make Texas and Texans confusing to us outlanders, who have to work for our money instead of letting oil do it for us. It is also confusing to go to a state where every one stands up when an orchestra plays "I've Been Working on the Railroad," and offers to punch you puss off if you don't stand, too.

It took me some time to get hep to the fact that the Texas anthem, "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You," as sacred to them as "The Star Spangled Banner," is sung to that popular tune.

It also took me some time to grasp the fact that in Texas' capital, Austin, the legislative season is coincidental with the mating season. Ladies should include a baseball bat in their luggage.

Somebody really ought to write a Baedeker for tourists who plan to venture through Texas. It would simplify things to know that Texans, when they ask "what do you want to drink?", don't mean dealer's choice of a martini, old fashioned, daiquiri, gibson, manhattan or whisky sour.

When a Texan asks you what you wish to drink, he expects you to stand up like a man and say one of two things: 1) bourbon neat or (2) bourbon with tap water.

All in all, I had a wonderful time. Texans are the most kind, helpful and hospitable people in the world.

BUT CAN I help it if I like concrete? Can I help it if I don't want to be buried, dead or alive, on the lone prairie?

Can I help it if I'm no better than those tactless oafs who visit New York, and, after you have spent your last cent showing the town, kiss you off with the insulting bromide "New York is a wonderful place to visit, but I wouldn't live here if you gave me the place?"

Well sir, podner, Texas is a wonderful place to visit, but—

SHOULD the Gay Nineties be forgot? Harry B. Haines, newspaper publisher of Paterson, N. J., does not think so. A Gay Nineties Plaza, sponsored by him, has just been opened, containing typical features of everyday life half a century ago. The piece which started the collection was a horse watering trough which was about to be scrapped to permit a street to be widened. Thinking this a period piece which should be preserved, Mr. Haines got the local park commission to provide space for it. Other residents have contributed stepping stones, hitching posts and gas lamps. Perhaps a museum for smaller objects may come later.

The Nineties were not always as gay as people like to think them. Half their duration was taken up with a severe depression, perhaps the worst that the United States had until 1929. The character of city government in general was at almost its lowest then, and there were unsavory scandals in connection with the election of several United States senators. Low wages and long hours were the rule, and labor unions had a hard row to hoe.

With all our disadvantages, we have progressed a long way since that time. We can therefore look tolerantly on the foibles of that age, and think of it as a glamorous era, the like of which will not be seen again. And for that we may be thankful.

IZAAK'S GREATEST SONS

NOW THERE is a Fishing Hall of Fame, besides that long established for baseball. One also has been proposed for football. The Sportsman's Club of America has been receiving notes from its thousands of members, picking out notable fishermen and writers on the sport from a list suggested by the officers. The result of the balloting chooses 16 dead celebrities and 38 who are living.

Izaak Walton, a kind of patron saint of all fishermen, naturally heads the list. Others who are held to have rendered notable service to fishing include the writers Zane Grey and Irvin S. Cobb, and Frederick M. Halford, father of modern fly fishing, all now dead.

The living are headed by ex-president Hoover, and include such figures as Jay N. (Ding) Darling, cartoonist who has done much for conservation. Other names will be added in June, and at intervals after that.

These efforts to lengthen the fame of great figures of sports are interesting. Such fame is fleeting indeed, except for the very few. The question will always arise, however, whether a hall of fame is immortalized by the names on its roster or whether it is used to perpetuate names which otherwise would be easily forgotten.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Parents often write to me expressing a helplessness in the face of the expertness of educational administrators. The parents know what they desire in the matter of education, but seem to be up against a stone wall. The richer citizens solve their problem by sending their children to private schools, paying a double fee for the education of their young; those who cannot afford such luxuries have to accept whatever the public schools give their children. Parents who object to a materialistic, amoral education for their children have their difficulties.

In Los Angeles, the school board has made surprising progress in meeting this problem. Last Sept. 16, the board of education adopted a statement of policy from which I quote only three paragraphs, but those who are interested may obtain the full statement from the Los Angeles Board of Education. The heart of the statement is:

"The followers of Marxism and Hitlerism have long been trained in the philosophy of godless materialism and ruthless totalitarianism for world conquest. The Communist revolutionary leaders in every country today are the product of the Moscow schools for training in ideological warfare. These militant, undemocratic ideologies have gained power out of all proportion to their numbers because their proponents had been skillfully educated in their principles and doctrines based on class and race warfare.

"The schools of the Democratic nations must, therefore, teach their future leaders the Democratic point of view which is based on moral and spiritual concepts.

"We look to our educators to teach these concepts by developing, in every area of learning, the simple basic principles of (a)—sound, moral standards, (b)—faith in God, (c)—respect for human dignity."

The Los Angeles schools have actually introduced courses in spiritual values from the kindergarten to high school and their outline of this subject, "school publication No. 402," ought to be studied by every school board in the United States.

One of the weaknesses of our school system is that the fundamentally sound doctrine of the separation of Church and State has, in many places, been interpreted to mean separation of religion from learning. In fact, the atheists have succeeded in getting a decision from the United States Supreme Court which justified their claim that God is alien, under our system, to education. However, Karl Marx, Lenin, Lysenko and even Stalin are not alien.

The Los Angeles school board, however, sets out to show that certain truths are eternal, unchanging and universal. For instance, they take the Golden Rule and show its universality as follows:

"Christianity: 'All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them; for, this is the law and the prophets.'

"Christianity and Judaism: 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.'

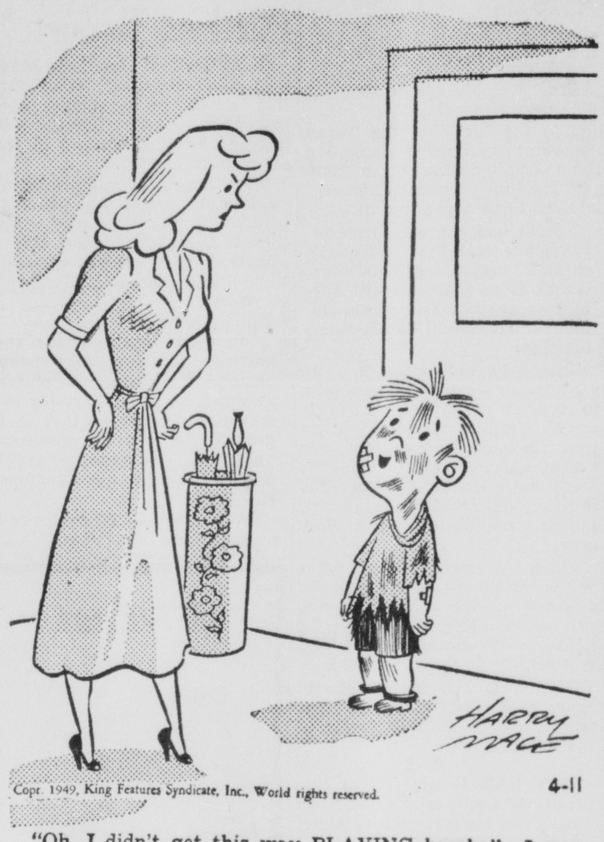

"Buddhism: 'Minister to friends and familiars in five ways: By generosity, courtesy and benevolence, by treating them as one treats himself, and by being as good as his word.'

Red traffic lights are not a Russian invention for the purpose of holding back drivers wanting to go places. They really do have a useful function.

Persistent Cough Needs Care

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A COUGH is not only a problem to the person who has it, but often becomes a public nuisance. It is especially disturbing in churches, theatres, streetcars and offices; in fact, in any place of public gathering. Often, the coughing is completely unnecessary, since many nervous persons acquire the habit of clearing their throats or coughing.

Under usual circumstances, coughing is needed to relieve irritation and to get rid of material that is excreted by the lining membrane of the throat and lungs. But control of coughing is desirable and often necessary. X-ray examinations have been made of the lungs during coughing attacks which show that during an attack material may be scattered throughout the lung and into the windpipe. Furthermore, continued coughing produces inflammation which allows infection to occur more easily. Coughing is taken for granted by many persons without knowing just what the coughing is due to. So, it is always well to know the reason for a cough.

Lining Membrane

Coughing is caused by irritation of the lining membrane of the breathing organs. This irritation may be caused by cold air, irritating gases, and infections. On the other hand, the coughing may be due to pressure from enlarged glands, a heart condition, or to disturbances affecting the lining membrane of the chest cavity.

Patients can be taught to restrain coughing and to cough only at intervals. Bed rest often is helpful in the control of coughing. Of course, in every instance, efforts should be made to find the cause of the coughing and to eliminate it.

The air conditions in a room can influence coughing to a great degree. The air should be warm and moist, because hot, dry air makes a cough worse.

Quieting Drugs

The medical treatment of a cough is also helpful. At first, quieting drugs may be employed; later, what are known as expectorants may be used to stimulate the formation of secretion and loosen the cough.

It is surprising how valuable simple measures often are in relieving coughing attacks. Of course, when there are infections present, the sulfonamide drugs or penicillin may be employed to eliminate them.

A cough should always call for a study by a physician to determine the cause.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

N. M.: What is bronchiectasis? What does it come from, and is there a cure for it?

Answer: Bronchiectasis is a disorder in which the small tubes in the lungs, known as the bronchi, become stretched or dilated and form small sacs in the lungs.

The exact cause of this condition is not known, but apparently it may develop as an aftermath of the damage caused by asthma or chronic bronchitis. The condition may be produced in persons who play a musical instrument which requires hard blowing, or in persons who have some obstruction to the breathing.

Penicillin, given by injection into a muscle or breathed into the lungs, has been found beneficial in the treatment of bronchiectasis. The benefits obtained from the penicillin are, of course, only temporary, that is, they control the infection but do not get rid of the dilated bronchi. In severe cases, some operative treatment may be necessary.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Russians now claim they invented television. Don't know about that but they sure developed puppets.

In fact they've got countries where people don't need television to see puppets. All they've got to do is visit their local legislature.

Moscow says they had television when they still had a czar. Radar would have been more helpful to him.

But they don't explain why they went from 1919 to 1949 without developing television. . .unless they were waiting for pictures to come through in red.

Guatemala is away ahead of Russia in revolutions though. They've just had their 19th since 1945.

There's a country where even a Republican has 19 chances in four years to head up the government.

Democrats still think ours is the best system. One year in four to make promises and three years to get up the next set.

And Have Not Love

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

THE PLAY was a comedy, fast and brittle. In the spontaneously fresh characterizations there was no evidence of how many hundreds of nights these people had said the same lines to bring laughter and escape.

"Beatrice," Henry Boarman said to her when the first act was ending, "you and David go out to smoke. Cecily and I will stay here."

So she and David stood in the crowded lobby, but only David smoked.

"How long are you going to be in New York, Beatrice?"

It was a question that everyone she knew here would naturally ask. Yet when David asked it, it had a special significance, because indirectly he was telling her that he wanted to see her again.

"I don't quite know," she answered truthfully. "When you visit my mother, you don't plan. But I'm certain I won't be here more than a week." She had not planned to stay that long but she could not tell him that what Cecily had told her today had brought her to the swift decision to stay longer.

"I just want to to know," he said with a forthrightness that was wonderfully warming, "how much time will be mine." He waited a few moments until a knot of garrulous people indiscriminately blowing smoke decided to move before he said in a teasing tone, "I won't ask for any of tomorrow. Women and their shopping. But the day after tomorrow if I can borrow a car, and I think I can, will you ride up the Hudson with me?"

"I'd love to. I haven't done that in years."

"I've never done it at all, and I'm told it's one of the things I should do while I am here." His chuckle seemed to clean the air. "Of course the prime reason for my being here is to buy machinery, and I bring up that mundane little matter only because I can tell you now that that business is finished."

"And you are free for the rest of the time."

His eyes teased again. "Beatrice, as if you didn't know it was April first."

She looked at him more gravely than she realized. "The time is so short now that I don't have to count on my fingers. David, do you want to go back?"

"Very much. Oh, very much," he answered, turning serious to match her mood of the moment. His eyes swept the well dressed throng, the furs and orchids, the glitter, the brilliant, tempting night outside, intoxicating as only New York can be at night. "I hardly know how to say it, Beatrice, without sounding like a bit of a high-blown fool. To each his own. And I am a patriot."

She was glad that it ended there as they returned to their seats.

When the play was over, they went to a famous place where Henry and Cecily were such old habitues that their customarily reserved table had a meaning for them almost as deep as their respective homes. Cecily looked as always, intent and captivated, as if she had never been to a smart and famous place before, her eyes making pleasurable litttle journeys from this to that person, her smile given to a few, her uninhibited charm to all.

Henry, sitting with so great a comfort that it was doubtful he would ever wish to rise again, murmured to Beatrice with a sly smile, "Your mother is wonderful, Beatrice."

"Thank you, Henry," Beatrice said. "I know she is."

How fantastic, she thought, that I can say that about her, and mean it with all my heart, and feel relieved as if my heart has been lifted of a burden it has borne my whole life. Yet how intricate would be my explanation if I were called upon to make it as to why I think my mother is wonderful now.

Henry said, "You kids dance. Cecily won't dance with me anymore. I'm too fat."

"Henry, darling, that isn't true," Cecily said. She turned her head so that her piquant profile changed into full face. "Your rhumba is divine, darling. It's just that I like to sit and look. I live with my eyes."

"There's nothing wrong with your rhythm either," Henry told her with warm affection.

But David was rising from the chair, and suddenly the room was filled with music. And presently he and Beatrice merged on the floor in the fluid, colorful mass.

"This is a new experience for us," David said. "We haven't danced before, Beatrice." When he spoke again, it was with his lips touching her hair. "It is not as much dancing as holding you in my arms. Look at me. Now can you tell me that you have not had a hunger for this?"

"No, I cannot. It wouldn't be true. You lifted me up, David, up and out of myself." She unconsciously gave him quite her loveliest smile, incongruously both proud and humble. "Belated growing pains."

"I helped you over them, darling."

"Yes."

"You've never flirted with me, Beatrice. Do you know how much I've liked that?"

And how much, she thought, you've been exposed to married women who've done just that when their husbands were looking the other way.

"I don't know," Beatrice said. "I don't know exactly what I've been with you, David. I've been trying to do justice to all the pieces I've cut myself into."

He smiled very gently. "I know, I know what you've been, and the day after tomorrow I'll tell you. But I won't wait until then to tell you how much I like your hair. Did you think I hadn't noticed?"

"Did you think I had not noticed that you had given your silent approval?"

He laughed and said, "I wish we could go on from here to other places and other music. But you are going to sleep because you've had a long day and a long enough night, and I'll pick you up at eleven the day after tomorrow. I won't telephone you tomorrow. That would be a responsibility for you, and you shouldn't have any while you are here."

They said good-night just outside the apartment door, and David and Henry left together.

Cecily yawned and sighed. "Good night, dear." She stopped still, her little ermine cape sliding off one shoulder. "Beatrice." And when Beatrice looked at her Cecily said, "You were the handsomest couple there tonight. You complement each other."

"Thank you, Mother." Her look held more than she could possibly say of what this night had revealed to her. "Good night, darling."

In no respect had Cecily's life altered. Beatrice was up for hours the next day before Cecily made her appearance, full of plans for the day. Beatrice would come with her, of course, for a fitting. They were meeting friends for lunch, Cecily's women friends, and they were going to have cocktails at Josephine's, and dinner with the MacLeans.

"I'm going to be with David tomorrow," Beatrice told her. "I promised. He's borrowing a car."

"That sounds like fun, dear."

"I wrote to Porter this morning telling him I'm going to stay a week."

Cecily understood. "That was sweet. We'll do all sorts of things. I don't know when I've felt so good." She looked over the flowers she was arranging. "David is an attractive man, my dear, but Porter—"

"I know what David is, Mother."

Cecily wrinkled her nose. "I thought you did."

Again, as frequently in the past, Beatrice was amazed to what lengths people would go to please her mother. Cecily's tailor, for instance, a man of explosive temperament, calmly took it in his stride that the sleeve of Cecily's new suit must come out because Cecily said it was too tight. And at lunch with two other women when they were all settled and Cecily espied a more desirable table, she thought nothing at all of asking the waiter to move, and this he did with a cheer that would have been smouldering rage if anyone else asked him. They were late for dinner at the MacLeans, of course, though Beatrice frequently reminded her mother of the time. It was past one in the morning when they returned to the apartment, and Beatrice fell asleep almost at once.

When she awoke the thought quickly materialized that this was the day she was spending with David. She looked at her watch on the bedside table—there were fewer clocks in her mother's house than in any house in which she had ever been, because Cecily loathed time—and saw thit it was ten fifteen. Just time enough to bathe and dress before he came. There was no time for her body to lie in quietude while her mind tried to mold her mood for this day. It would indeed be useless when she knew from the tips of her nerves that the day would end in a climax inevitable.

She was waiting alone when he came. Cecily was still asleep.

Inside WASHINGTON
MARCH OF EVENTS

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Administration leaders still have their fingers crossed about the business situation. They are confident that there is no basic economic cause for a recession. However, they acknowledge that a bad business psychology could bring one.

They are worried over the possibility that this might happen. There is very good reason for this. The federal government has much to lose from a sharp business decline. It has everything to gain from maintaining prosperity at a high level.

Washington

By far the most important loss would be a major defeat in the "cold war" with Russia. A severe downplunge of business would turn the country's attention from the foreign front to the home front. It would force officials to concentrate on domestic problems, possibly to the neglect of major developments in the foreign field.

A disastrous depression might increase the ranks of Communism in the United States. Another major loss would be revenue. This would spell out in deficits and probably would strengthen demands in Congress for cuts in foreign aid outlays.

● DEWEY TO BOW OUT—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will not seek the Senate seat of ailing Senator Robert Wagner (D), New York, in 1950. Best advice from Albany is that Dewey will retire to the private practice of law after completing his present term in the governor's mansion.

Dewey plans to set up private practice in Manhattan, where he will concentrate on replenishing his personal financial resources.

One of the guiding factors in Dewey's decision not to seek a place in the Senate is the fact that he would be a mere Senate freshman after twice having led the Republican party in the presidential campaigns.

● CREDIT WHERE IT IS DUE—An amusing bit of by-play that followed the Senate's gag-rule debate perhaps explains better than anything else some of the footwork that was taking place as administration Democrats and Republicans sparred for position.

Neely kept his remarks out of the Congressional Record by revising them after his speech. Wherry, the Nebraska Republican, thought perhaps administration senators thought that Dixie would resent the remark.

So Wherry made a floor fight, and got the words in the record. The fact is that, behind the scenes, both factions wanted to hold the loyalty of the Dixie bloc after the fireworks were over.

One Senate veteran observed: "Both sides want to get credit with the southerners for not closing the door to filibusters, and at the same time to get credit in the press for having made a valiant attempt to end filibusters."

● NEW HOUSE SPY PROBERS TREAD SOFTLY—There will be little fanfare when the new House un-American activities committee opens its investigations of Communist operations in the United States.

The committee, now under Democratic management, has laid down a policy of judicious inquiry before releasing material for publication.

Chairman John S. Wood (D), Georgia, underscored the policy when he announced that Steve Nelson, western Pennsylvania Communist leader, will appear at hearings on the leftist American Slav Congress.

Not Much Fanfare For Probe

Wood emphasized that Nelson, a familiar name in headlines when the Republicans controlled the committee, will testify in secret session before a decision is made on whether he will appear in public.

"We don't want to injure any innocent persons," Wood explained. Wood aims at serious investigation, not at newspaper headlines. One criticism of the GOP-run committee was that its hearings ran off in all directions besmirching the reputations of persons not directly involved.

A quiet block in Greenwich Village will never be the same since one determined jokester invaded it last Summer. He appeared first with two accomplices at Number Nine and said, "We've come for the parlor sofa."

While the servant watched in silence, the sofa was carried from Number Nine and taken to Number Thirty-four. "We're delivering that parlor sofa," he explained—and left it standing in the hallway. By noon a considerable amount of heavy furniture had been shifted hither and yon. Then the jokster disappeared. A great deal of explaining was necessary before order was restored.

GAY NINETIES PARK

SHOULD the Gay Nineties be forgot? Harry B. Haines, newspaper publisher of Paterson, N. J., does not think so. A Gay Nineties Plaza, sponsored by him, has just been opened, containing typical features of everyday life half a century ago. The piece which started the collection was a horse watering trough which was about to be scrapped to permit a street to be widened. Thinking this a period piece which should be preserved, Mr. Haines got the local park commission to provide space for it. Other residents have contributed stepping stones, hitching posts and gas lamps. Perhaps a museum for smaller objects may come later.

The Nineties were not always as gay as people like to think them. Half their duration was taken up with a severe depression, perhaps the worst that the United States had until 1929. The character of city government in general was at almost its lowest then, and there were unsavory scandals in connection with the election of several United States senators. Low wages and long hours were the rule, and labor unions had a hard row to hoe.

With all our disadvantages, we have progressed a long way since that time. We can therefore look tolerantly on the foibles of that age, and think of it as a glamorous era, the like of which will not be seen again. And for that we may be thankful.

IZAAK'S GREATEST SONS

NOW THERE is a Fishing Hall of Fame, besides that long established for baseball. One also has been proposed for football. The Sportsman's Club of America has been receiving notes from its thousands of members, picking out notable fishermen and writers on the sport from a list suggested by the officers. The result of the balloting chooses 16 dead celebrities and 38 who are living.

Izaak Walton, a kind of patron saint of all fishermen, naturally heads the list. Others who are held to have rendered notable service to fishing include the writers Zane Grey and Irvin S. Cobb, and Frederick M. Halford, father of modern fly fishing, all now dead.

The living are headed by ex-president Hoover, and include such figures as Jay N. (Ding) Darling, cartoonist who has done much for conservation. Other names will be added in June, and at intervals after that.

These efforts to lengthen the fame of great figures of sports are interesting. Such fame is fleeting indeed, except for the very few. The question will always arise, however, whether a hall of fame is immortalized by the names on its roster or whether it is used to perpetuate names which otherwise would be easily forgotten.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Parents often write to me expressing a helplessness in the face of the expertness of educational administrators. The parents know what they desire in the matter of education, but seem to be up against a stone wall. The richer citizens solve their problem by sending their children to private schools, paying a double fee for the education of their young; those who cannot afford such luxuries have to accept whatever the public schools give their children. Parents who object to a materialistic, amoral education for their children have their difficulties.

In Los Angeles, the school board has made surprising progress in meeting this problem. Last Sept. 16, the board of education adopted a statement of policy from which I quote only three paragraphs, but those who are interested may obtain the full statement from the Los Angeles Board of Education. The heart of the statement is:

"The followers of Marxism and Hitlerism have long been trained in the philosophy of godless materialism and ruthless totalitarianism for world conquest. The Communist revolutionary leaders in every country today are the product of the Moscow schools for training in ideological warfare. These militant, undemocratic ideologies have gained power out of all proportion to their numbers because their proponents had been skillfully educated in their principles and doctrines based on class and race warfare.

"The schools of the Democratic nations must, therefore, teach their future leaders the Democratic point of view which is based on moral and spiritual concepts.

"We look to our educators to teach these concepts by developing, in every area of learning, the simple basic principles of (a)—sound, moral standards, (b)—faith in God, (c)—respect for human dignity."

The Los Angeles schools have actually introduced courses in spiritual values from the kindergarten to high school and their outline of this subject, "school publication No. 402," ought to be studied by every school board in the United States.

One of the weaknesses of our school system is that the fundamentally sound doctrine of the separation of Church and State has, in many places, been interpreted to mean separation of religion from learning. In fact, the atheists have succeeded in getting a decision from the United States Supreme Court which justified their claim that God is alien, under our system, to education. However, Karl Marx, Lenin, Lysenko and even Stalin are not alien.

The Los Angeles school board, however, sets out to show that certain truths are eternal, unchanging and universal. For instance, they take the Golden Rule and show its universality as follows:

"Christianity: 'All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them; for, this is the law and the prophets.'

"Christianity and Judaism: 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.'

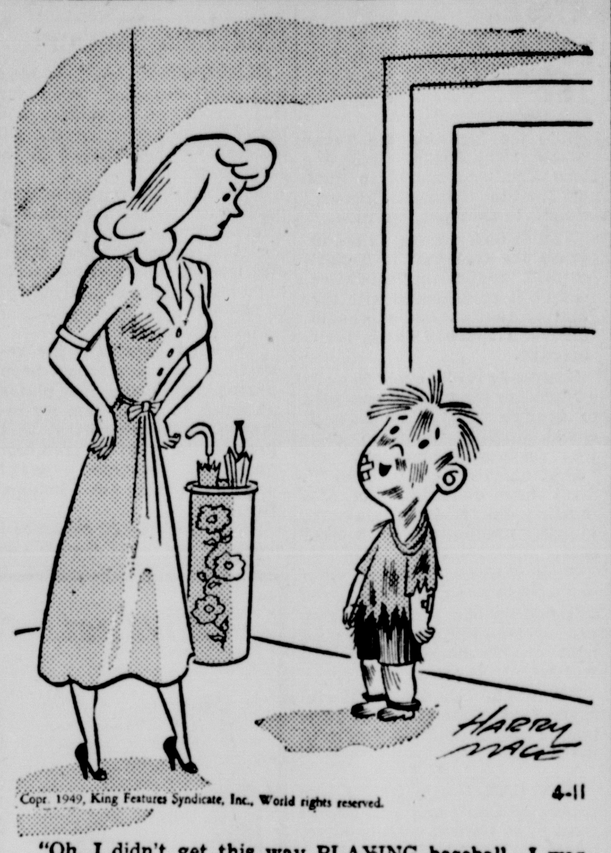

"Buddhism: 'Minister to friends and familiars in five ways: By generosity, courtesy and benevolence, by treating them as one treats himself, and by being as good as his word.'

Persistent Cough Needs Care

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A COUGH is not only a problem to the person who has it, but often becomes a public nuisance. It is especially disturbing in churches, theatres, streetcars and offices; in fact, in any place of public gathering. Often, the coughing is completely unnecessary, since many nervous persons acquire the habit of clearing their throats or coughing.

Under usual circumstances, coughing is needed to relieve irritation and to get rid of material that is excreted by the lining membrane of the throat and lungs. But control of coughing is desirable and often necessary. X-ray examinations have been made of the lungs during coughing attacks which show that during an attack material may be scattered throughout the lung and into the windpipe. Furthermore, continued coughing produces inflammation which allows infection to occur more easily. Coughing is taken for granted by many persons without knowing just what the coughing is due to. So, it is always well to know the reason for a cough.

Lining Membrane

Coughing is caused by irritation of the lining membrane of the breathing organs. This irritation may be caused by cold air, irritating gases, and infections. On the other hand, the coughing may be due to pressure from enlarged glands, a heart condition, or to disturbances affecting the lining membrane of the chest cavity.

Patients can be taught to restrain coughing and to cough only at intervals. Bed rest often is helpful in the control of coughing. Of course, in every instance, efforts should be made to find the cause of the coughing and to eliminate it.

The air conditions in a room can influence coughing to a great degree. The air should be warm and moist, because hot, dry air makes a cough worse.

Quieting Drugs

The medical treatment of a cough is also helpful. At first, quieting drugs may be employed; later, what are known as expectorants may be used to stimulate the formation of secretion and loosen the cough.

It is surprising how valuable simple measures often are in relieving coughing attacks. Of course, when there are infections present, the sulfonamide drugs or penicillin may be employed to eliminate them.

A cough should always call for a study by a physician to determine the cause.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

N. M.: What is bronchiectasis? What does it come from, and is there a cure for it?

Answer: Bronchiectasis is a disorder in which the small tubes in the lungs, known as the bronchi, become stretched or dilated and form small sacs in the lungs.

The exact cause of this condition is not known, but apparently it may develop as an aftermath of the damage caused by asthma or chronic bronchitis. The condition may be produced in persons who play a musical instrument which requires hard blowing, or in persons who have some obstruction to the breathing.

Penicillin, given by injection into a muscle or breathed into the lungs, has been found beneficial in the treatment of bronchiectasis. The benefits obtained from the penicillin are, of course, only temporary, that is, they control the infection but do not get rid of the dilated bronchi. In severe cases, some operative treatment may be necessary.

And Have Not Love

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

THE PLAY was a comedy, fast and brittle. In the spontaneously fresh characterizations there was no evidence of how many hundreds of nights these people had said the same lines to bring laughter and escape.

"Beatrice," Henry Boarman said to her when the first act was ending, "you and David go out to smoke. Cecily and I will stay here."

So she and David stood in the crowded lobby, but only David smoked.

"How long are you going to be in New York, Beatrice?"

It was a question that everyone she knew here would naturally ask. Yet when David asked it, it had a special significance, because indirectly he was telling her that he wanted to see her again.

"I don't quite know," she answered truthfully. "When you visit my mother, you don't plan. But I'm certain I won't be here more than a week." She had not planned to stay that long but she could not tell him that what Cecily had told her today had brought her to the swift decision to stay longer.

"I just want to to know," he said with a forthrightness that was wonderfully warming, "how much time will be mine." He waited a few moments until a knot of garrulous people indiscriminately blowing smoke decided to move before he said in a teasing tone, "I won't ask for any of tomorrow. Women and their shopping. But the day after tomorrow if I can borrow a car, and I think I can, will you ride up the Hudson with me?"

"I'd love to. I haven't done that in years."

"I've never done it at all, and I'm told it's one of the things I should do while I am here." His chuckle seemed to clean the air. "Of course the prime reason for my being here is to buy machinery, and I bring up that mundane little matter only because I can tell you now that that business is finished."

"And you are free for the rest of the time."

His eyes teased again. "Beatrice, as if you didn't know it was April first."

She looked at him more gravely than she realized. "The time is so short now that I don't have to count on my fingers. David, do you want to go back?"

"Very much. Oh, very much," he answered, turning serious to match her mood of the moment. His eyes swept the well dressed throng, the furs and orchids, the glitter, the brilliant, tempting night outside, intoxicating as only New York can be at night. "I hardly know how to say it, Beatrice, without sounding like a bit of a high-blown fool. To each his own. And I am a patriot."

She was glad that it ended there as they returned to their seats.

When the play was over, they went to a famous place where Henry and Cecily were such old habitues that their customarily reserved table had a meaning for them almost as deep as their respective homes. Cecily looked as always, intent and captivated, as if she had never been to a smart and famous place before, her eyes making pleasurable litttle journeys from this to that person, her smile given to a few, her uninhibited charm to all.

Henry, sitting with so great a comfort that it was doubtful he would ever wish to rise again, murmured to Beatrice with a sly smile, "Your mother is wonderful, Beatrice."

"Thank you, Henry," Beatrice said. "I know she is."

How fantastic, she thought, that I can say that about her, and mean it with all my heart, and feel relieved as if my heart has been lifted of a burden it has borne my whole life. Yet how intricate would be my explanation if I were called upon to make it as to why I think my mother is wonderful now.

Henry said, "You kids dance. Cecily won't dance with me anymore. I'm too fat."

"Henry, darling, that isn't true," Cecily said. She turned her head so that her piquant profile changed into full face. "Your rhumba is divine, darling. It's just that I like to sit and look. I live with my eyes."

"There's nothing wrong with your rhythm either," Henry told her with warm affection.

But David was rising from the chair, and suddenly the room was filled with music. And presently he and Beatrice merged on the floor in the fluid, colorful mass.

"This is a new experience for us," David said. "We haven't danced before, Beatrice." When he spoke again, it was with his lips touching her hair. "It is not as much dancing as holding you in my arms. Look at me. Now can you tell me that you have not had a hunger for this?"

"No, I cannot. It wouldn't be true. You lifted me up, David, up and out of myself." She unconsciously gave him quite her loveliest smile, incongruously both proud and humble. "Belated growing pains."

"I helped you over them, darling."

"Yes."

"You've never flirted with me, Beatrice. Do you know how much I've liked that?"

And how much, she thought, you've been exposed to married women who've done just that when their husbands were looking the other way.

"I don't know," Beatrice said. "I don't know exactly what I've been with you, David. I've been trying to do justice to all the pieces I've cut myself into."

He smiled very gently. "I know, I know what you've been, and the day after tomorrow I'll tell you. But I won't wait until then to tell you how much I like your hair. Did you think I hadn't noticed?"

"Did you think I had not noticed that you had given your silent approval?"

He laughed and said, "I wish we could go on from here to other places and other music. But you are going to sleep because you've had a long day and a long enough night, and I'll pick you up at eleven the day after tomorrow. I won't telephone you tomorrow. That would be a responsibility for you, and you shouldn't have any while you are here."

They said good-night just outside the apartment door, and David and Henry left together.

Cecily yawned and sighed. "Good night, dear." She stopped still, her little ermine cape sliding off one shoulder. "Beatrice." And when Beatrice looked at her Cecily said, "You were the handsomest couple there tonight. You complement each other."

"Thank you, Mother." Her look held more than she could possibly say of what this night had revealed to her. "Good night, darling."

In no respect had Cecily's life altered. Beatrice was up for hours the next day before Cecily made her appearance, full of plans for the day. Beatrice would come with her, of course, for a fitting. They were meeting friends for lunch, Cecily's women friends, and they were going to have cocktails at Josephine's, and dinner with the MacLeans.

"That sounds like fun, dear."

"I wrote to Porter this morning telling him I'm going to stay a week."

Washington

By far the most important loss would be a major defeat in the "cold war" with Russia. A severe downplunge of business would turn the country's attention from the foreign front to the home front. It would force officials to concentrate on domestic problems, possibly to the neglect of major developments in the foreign field.

A disastrous depression might increase the ranks of Communism in the United States. Another major loss would be revenue. This would spell out in deficits and probably would strengthen demands in Congress for cuts in foreign aid outlays.

● DEWEY TO BOW OUT—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will not seek the Senate seat of ailing Senator Robert Wagner (D), New York, in 1950. Best advice from Albany is that Dewey will retire to the private practice of law after completing his present term in the governor's mansion.

Dewey plans to set up private practice in Manhattan, where he will concentrate on replenishing his personal financial resources.

One of the guiding factors in Dewey's decision not to seek a place in the Senate is the fact that he would be a mere Senate freshman after twice having led the Republican party in the presidential campaigns.

● CREDIT WHERE IT IS DUE—An amusing bit of by-play that followed the Senate's gag-rule debate perhaps explains better than anything else some of the footwork that was taking place as administration Democrats and Republicans sparred for position.

Neely kept his remarks out of the Congressional Record by revising them after his speech. Wherry, the Nebraska Republican, thought perhaps administration senators thought that Dixie would resent the remark.

So Wherry made a floor fight, and got the words in the record. The fact is that, behind the scenes, both factions wanted to hold the loyalty of the Dixie bloc after the fireworks were over.

One Senate veteran observed: "Both sides want to get credit with the southerners for not closing the door to filibusters, and at the same time to get credit in the press for having made a valiant attempt to end filibusters."

● NEW HOUSE SPY PROBERS TREAD SOFTLY—There will be little fanfare when the new House un-American activities committee opens its investigations of Communist operations in the United States.

The committee, now under Democratic management, has laid down a policy of judicious inquiry before releasing material for publication.

Chairman John S. Wood (D), Georgia, underscored the policy when he announced that Steve Nelson, western Pennsylvania Communist leader, will appear at hearings on the leftist American Slav Congress.

Not Much Fanfare For Probe

Wood emphasized that Nelson, a familiar name in headlines when the Republicans controlled the committee, will testify in secret session before a decision is made on whether he will appear in public.

"We don't want to injure any innocent persons," Wood explained. Wood aims at serious investigation, not at newspaper headlines. One criticism of the GOP-run committee was that its hearings ran off in all directions besmirching the reputations of persons not directly involved.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Russians now claim they invented television. Don't know about that but they sure developed puppets.

In fact they've got countries where people don't need television to see puppets. All they've got to do is visit their local legislature.

Moscow says they had television when they still had a czar. Radar would have been more helpful to him.

But they don't explain why they went from 1919 to 1949 without developing television. . .unless they were waiting for pictures to come through in red.

Guatemala is away ahead of Russia in revolutions though. They've just had their 19th since 1945.

There's a country where even a Republican has 19 chances in four years to head up the government.

Democrats still think ours is the best system. One year in four to make promises and three years to get up the next set.

Try, Stop Me

A quiet block in Greenwich Village will never be the same since one determined jokester invaded it last Summer. He appeared first with two accomplices at Number Nine and said, "We've come for the parlor sofa."

While the servant watched in silence, the sofa was carried from Number Nine and taken to Number Thirty-four. "We're delivering that parlor sofa," he explained—and left it standing in the hallway. By noon a considerable amount of heavy furniture had been shifted hither and yon. Then the jokster disappeared. A great deal of explaining was necessary before order was restored.

Saltcreek Township School Scene Of Annual Junior-Senior Banquet

Program Centers On Radio Theme

Annual junior-senior banquet of Saltcreek Township high school was held in the school auditorium where a blue and white color scheme was carried out in the decorations.

The auditorium was divided in half by the use of a curtain effect made of blue and white crepe paper streamers. The back of the auditorium was used for the banquet and the front for the "radio studio," which depicted the theme of the program.

Honored guests lead the way into the dining room, followed by the faculty and the hosts. Blue balloons were fastened to the backs of each chair, with the name of each on it in white. Guests were seated around two long white-covered tables. Triple candleholders on the tables held blue tapers.

The rear walls of the auditorium were decorated with a sunburst effect made of blue streamers. At the end of each streamer the names of the honored guests were written in blue on white-paper caps, which had red tassels. The other walls were decorated by blue and white triangles with the baby pictures of each of the honored guests placed in prominent positions. An inverted sunburst effect added its colorful design to the windows.

Brothers and sisters of the hosts served a three-course dinner to approximately 42 people, 12 of which were the hosts. At the close of the dinner, the junior class sponsor, Miss Helen Houseberg, led in the singing of the class songs.

Master of ceremonies, Philip Enoch, invited the guests to the "radio studio" where a radio broadcast theme was carried out. The program opened with a welcome by Jean Dearth. Response was given by Lois Defenbaugh and commercial by Philip Enoch. Remarks were voiced by Superintendent H. A. Strous; the "Pussy-Cat Song" was presented by Jean Dearth as puss, Carolyn Reichelderfer as Tom and Francis Hupp as the man. Also in the program were recites by Betty Crocker Bartram —Esther Hoy; boxing match at Tarlton round gardens—announced by Charles Jones; piano duet, "Qui Vive," Carolyn Reichelderfer and Jean Dearth; Revelation of the seniors future —Betty Woodward as "Madame Ba-tee Wood-ward; baby show with the following seniors taking part: Steve Jones, Barbara Moss, Lois Defenbaugh and Carl Dean. Everett Tatman as "Doctor Ignoramous Niwitsky," the famous baby specialist, and Faye O'Hara as "Nurse Lottie Bluff." For the closing number, the junior class presented a farewell song "The Weeping Willow" sung to the tune of "Old Black Joe" and accompanied by many comical and amusing actions.

After the program Larry A. Best and Miss Genevieve Alley entertained with square dancing and folk games.

Countian Weds Sunday In Lima Ceremonies

Miss Gertrude Elizabeth Emerson of Lima became the bride Sunday of Martin Richard Sharrett of the Kingston community.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Eloise Emerson of Lima and Ralph Emerson of Logan. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Sharrett of the Kingston community.

The Rev. Warren Bright officiated for the ceremony at 2:30 p. m. Palm Sunday in St. Mark's Methodist church of Lima.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Lenore Watkins of Lima was maid of honor. Mary Catherine Emerson, cousin of the bride and Sharon Sharrett, sister of the bridegroom, were flower girls. Tom Emerson, cousin of the bride of St. Johns was ring bearer.

Ronald Sharrett of Kingston Route 1 was best man for his brother. Groomsmen were Steve Jones, Mac Wolfe and Robert Wilson of the Circleville community and Carl Justice of the Kingston community.

Miss Martha Sharrett, sister of the bridegroom, sang "The Lord's Prayer", "Because", and "Beloved It Is Morn," preceding the ceremony.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Sharrett will establish a home in Whisler, where the bridegroom is associated with a soil conservation program.

The bride was graduated by Lima Central high school and is attending Ohio State university, Columbus. Her husband was graduated by Pickaway Township high school and attended Ohio State university.

More Attention Need Be Given To Proper Dress

Fashion leaders say "dress is an interesting subject; many women do not give it the attention they should". They declared clothes may not make the man—but they certainly have a lot to do in making the woman."

"No matter how beautiful a woman may be, if she is a frump her pulchritude charms do not count for much. As frocks are—they are figure revealing. Fashion designers declare, "lean sisters should take on curves—the plumpies to cast off their adipose burdens".

They elaborated by saying "when the heavyweight gets herself into a tight skirt and a snug little jacket, she is accenting her too-ample measurements. Long lines and soft draperies are her satorial dish". They added, "for good lines it is necessary to practice good posture."

"If women are to wear latest styles that belong to the period of the wasp waist and the steel-riveted corset, one must have a straight back, slender waistline and enough chest expansion to give bodice shapeliness. The best kind of corsets to rely upon are strong silent resilient muscles. They added "they don't wear out—and they impart better lines than can be provided by any foundation garment."

Their advice was "it should be the ambition of every one of the sisters to live wisely, eat moderately, exercise regularly in order to maintain normal weight and measurements."

Personals

Ohio's Hill Areas Take On Beauty

Hocking Park Color Is Being Lauded

Pickaway Countians were finding as warmer weather arrives that the hill country of Southern Ohio is now bursting out all over with one of Mother Nature's greatest shows.

Boosters for Ohio beauty were not hesitant to point out the unusual things to see in Southern Ohio's rugged forest regions. During April and May the entire countryside blases with the color of millions of redbud trees and wears a frosting of white created by dogwood blossoms.

Beneath the showy blossoming shrubs lies the real glory of Southern Ohio, the wide variety of wild flowers. In the Hocking Forest Parks alone more than 230 species have been cataloged.

Many of the rare woods orchids are found in the area around Old Man's Cave, Ash Cave, Cedar Falls and other state parks. Some of the best known flowers are the trailing arbutus, wild phlox, trilliums, violets, and spring glory. Few places in America have as wide a variety of ferns and mosses as the Hocking Hills.

The unusual concentration of wild flowers and plants in the caves region was caused by the glacier that pushed plants from the subartic forests down to that poin' and left them there when the ice melted.

Tour booklets and other information about Ohio's scenic route may be secured from the Ohio Development and Publicity Commission, 402 State Office Building, Columbus.

AMERICAN SAILORS AND MARINES show they know how to "swing it" when it comes to a good will visit, as they dance before the famed Acropolis in Athens with Evzones of the Royal Bodyguard. Enjoying the proceedings are Greek soldiers and U. S. fighting men attached to the 6th U. S. Navy Task Fleet visiting in Greece. Meanwhile, in New York, a detachment of Greece's fighting men and four of her most beautiful women participated in a Greek Independence Day celebration and colorful parade on Fifth Avenue. New Exam Set For Envoy's Eye

LONDON, April 11—The U. S. embassy here announced today that the royal surgeon-oculists will reexamine Lewis W. Douglas, United States ambassador to Britian, tomorrow.

The announcement was interpreted by medical quarters as an indication there is a chance of saving Douglas' injured eye. The diplomat pierced his left eye last week with a fish hook.

Deputies Ready To Halt UEW In Labor Dispute

CLEVELAND, April 11—Some 50 sheriff's deputies were on hand at the Fawick Airflex Co. in suburban Brooklyn today to guard against further picketing of the plant.

Judge James J. Connell ended the strike by a court degree Friday, when he found 12 CIO-United Electrical Workers unionists guilty of contempt of court. The 12 are serving sentences in Cuyahoga County jail.

Meanwhile, striking employes of Fawick last night challenged in a defiant statement the right of Judge Connell to end the strike by forbidding picketing.

They did not indicate, however, whether they would follow up their defiance by resuming picketing and violence at the plant, which has been struck since March 7.

Police and sheriff's deputies reported rumors were rife that a massed mob would gather today to prevent non-striking employes from entering the plant, scene of violence on several occasions in the last month.

The unionists went on strike after the company withdrew recognition from the UEW for its failure to sign non-Communist affadavits.

Pioneer Church Plans Service

NEW PHILADELPHIA, April 11—The first Protestant church in Ohio—Schoenbrunn—will see another Easter dawn service April 17.

The first such service, with a procession of the congregation visiting nearby Gerd's Acre, where are graves of Christian Indians who died there, was held 177 years ago at sunrise.

Located two miles south of here on U. S. Highway 250, Schoenbrunn came into being in 1772 when David Zeisberger and a group of Indians started a small Christian community.

Its list of first in Ohio include the Protestant church, a school and even the town itself.

Boy Hangs Self; Hurts Probed

CINCINNATI, April 11—Cincinnati physicians examined 12-year-old Donald Marrs for internal injuries today after the boy accidentally hanged himself from a baby crib.

Police said Donald fastened a belt around his neck while playing with a younger brother, then dropped to his knees, tightening the belt.

The younger brother called their mother when the brother became unconscious and she called police and firemen who revived Donald.

ARMY OF EUROPE PLANNED

Realistic Approach Starts On North Atlantic Pact

WASHINGTON, April 11—The North Atlantic Defense Pact has started to move into the realistic stage with presentation of military aid requests that may cost the United States $2 billion.

Eight European nations participating in the vast program that is designed to safeguard Western Democracy against any contingency, made the requests.

They were Great Britain, France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Italy, Norway and France.

They outlined their needs and the costs have been estimated at the huge amount the Truman administration apparently is willing to advance as payment on insurance that if there is to be another war the Democracies will not be caught unprepared.

Coincident with news of the requests, which were made only one day after the treaty was signed, five of its signatories concluded a secret meeting at The Hague in Holland.

PROMISES WERE given that everything will be done to merit this American assistance. Defense ministers of the Western European Union powers—Britain, France and the Benelux nations—drew up plans to integrate their own military establishments and distribute armed forces and armament production in the most effective way.

This program was announced with the obvious intention of setting at rest the feeling in certain American circles that extension of assistance is to be on a one-way basis.

If carried out on the lines originally laid down, there will be created for the first time in history what actually amounts to an army of Europe—a perilous undertaking in some ways but one that is regarded by numerous experts as the only satisfactory guarantee of security.

The difficulties, of course, are tremendous.

Except in the cases where European armed forces have been supplied with U. S. military surplus, there are vast differences in conventional European armaments.

Presumably the Western European Union nations now are to standardize everything. Equally important, they will abolish military secrecy in all forms. Also, if one nation has a surplus it will be distributed to those who are leading and production will be geared to an over-all basis.

Some of this projected cooperation has an almost utopian scope. Yet the leading minds behind the North Atlantic Pact and its Western Union corollary seem determined to make both schemes work, fairly and with mutual cooperation and sacrifice where needed.

FBI Holds Pair In Alleged Theft

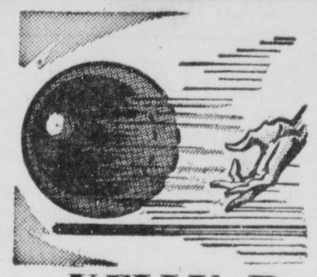

CLEVELAND, April 11—The Federal Bureau of Investigation sought today to determine whether an alleged theft of $485,000 in Toledo was a federal violation.

Held by Cleveland police for investigation were a 24-year-old east side steel worker and his wife. Detectives, however, refused to discuss the case, pending word from Toledo police and the FBI.

The couple was arrested after police learned that they had spent more than $20,000 on a new home and other things.

The reputed theft, not reported to authorities, occurred in January, the money was supposedly held by a Toledoan and was to be used to smuggle refugees and war supplies into Israel, the FBI reported.

The port of New York handled 42 percent of U. S. imports and 42 percent of its exports in 1947, both measured by dollar values.

Robert McClure Captures Kite-Flying Top Event

A chubby lad who did not want to enter the final event Saturday took top honors—and a nice camera as prize—at the kite-flying contest held Saturday afternoon in Pickaway Fairgrounds.

Winner of the event—the altitude test—was Robert McClure, a youngster who had picked up a couple of other prizes earlier in the competition, but who had decided to go home without competing for the coveted camera prize.

There was little doubt about young McClure winning as the ten minutes of the altitude test ticked away. His homemade kite climbed steadily, gave not one quivver and stood out well above the other entries.

Second prize went to Brent Bell whose kite got off to a slow start but could not match McClure's entry. Bell took home a baseball glove. Third prize, a fountain pen, went to Philip Wantz while the fourth prize, a new softball, went to Walter Sieverts.

THESE FOUR youths virtually dominated the competition.

In the strongest pull contest, Bell took another first prize when he topped competition in the younger age group flying kites three feet and over in length. The prize was a softball. Jerry Johnson won second and a toy gun. Carol Ann Johnson won third and an Alpine hat with ballpoint pen feather, and McClure took fourth and a box of candy.

In the older age group flying larger kites, Wantz was winner of a flashlight.

Flying smaller kites, Flo Goldschmidt took first prize of a gold bracelet for the younger age group. Second prize of a ball bat went to Bell. In the older age group of the same classification of kites, Wantz was the winner of a new softball.

MISS GOLDSCHMIDT won the prize as the youngest girl entered in the competition with Brent Bell's kid brother, Brian, winning as the youngest boy entered. Each was given a football-shaped coin bank.

The kite fly was sponsored by Circleville Kiwanis Club and is the first of a series of annual Spring kite-flying contests.

Elinor Williams'

Teen Tips

Manners may seem just stuffy "do's" and "don't ti you, but actually people judge you by your manners all your life—in school, on dates, in your home, on a job and in social life.

So it's none too soon to polish up yours, for your own sake as well as for your friends' and dates' sake. They'll like you better if your manners are good, because the basis of correct manners is consideration for others. That's why you'll be more fun to be with if your manners are smooth.

When you're in a restaurant, snack shop or at a soda fountain, girls, your handbag, pocketbook, gloves and all other personal articles that you carry around with you should be out of sight, not on the table. It's not fair to others to clutter the table with your stuff. Etiquette says to keep them in your lap or, if there's room on the seat beside you or an empty chair at your table, put them there.

Gloves and food just don't go together. Take yours off when you eat. . .and even when you sip a cold drink.

Keep your crumpled, soiled napkin in your lap until you leave the table. It's not appetizing to others to see it placed on the table before you leave.

Ice cream—how do you eat it? It's supposed to be put right into your little pink mouth, a spoonful at a time, not sucked from the spoon.

If you comb your hair at the table in restaurants, snack bars or anywhere else near food, you might just as well hang a big sign around your neck saying, "I'm thoughtless, unsanitary and know nothing about good manners!" Go to the powder room for hair-combing.

For tips on the correct, simple care of oily, blemished skin, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elinor Williams in care of The Circleville Herald.

Cigaret Blamed For House Fire

Circleville firemen were called to put out a blaze in the home of Homer Walters of 132 South Pickaway street Saturday night.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said the blaze was confined to the bathroom and that it apparently was caused by a cigaret igniting clothes hung up to dry. He estimated the damage at $75.

New Name List Is Awaited On Planning Panel

Mayor Thurman I. Miller reported Monday that progress on a drive to obtain four Circleville citizens to serve on a planning and zoning commission has come to a temporary standstill.

The mayor said he is waiting now for Councilman Robert Adkins to supply him with more names. At last council meeting Adkins said he had talked to a number of citizens who indicated they would be willing to serve on the commission.

He offered to supply a list of names to the mayor, and his offer was promptly accepted.

But out of the four names supplied, the mayor said only two accepted. They are Louis H. Mebs, local contractor, and Paul Johnson, office equipment dealer.

3 Drivers Fined Total Of $120 In Court Here

Three traffic violators were fined a total of $120 by Mayor Thurman I. Miller over the weekend.

Francis Lloyd Orahood of Mansfield was fined $10 and cost for passing in a non-passing zone while operating a tractor and semi-trailer on U. S. Route 23.

Roy M. Murphy of Whitehall was accused of speeding on State Route 104. He was fined $10 and costs.

Lad's Counsel Makes No Move In Appeal Try

BRYAN, April 11—Ervin Arthur Ingle, 15-year-old "prom king," today had not appealed his first degree murder conviction in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Pearl Gabriel, whom he claimed made advances to him the night of her death.

Counsel for the pudgy youth said there had been no decision on an appeal as yet.

Ingle was convicted Saturday evening of shooting the 56-year-old housewife through the head with a 22-calibre pistol "maliciously and purposely, in attempting to perpetrate robbery." He was tried by a three-judge court which recommended mercy, making a life sentence mandatory.

The boy was charged also with the fatal shooting of Mrs. Gabriel's 63-year-old husband, bu was tried only on the one count. Gabriel was killed a short time before his wife died.

The defense claimed that Ingle had been induced by Mrs. Gabriel to bring his father's pistol to the Gabriel household in return for the promise that Mrs. Gabriel would lend him her car to attend a school dance. He was to have been crowned "king" of the prom.

Counsel said that the woman then shot her husband while the youth was out of the room, then forced him to help her carry her husband's body to the basement. Then, the defense continued, she forced him to accompany her to a lonely spot in a woods and made advances to him. A tussle ensued, they said, and she was killed.

Monroe Alumni To Give Show Before Sciotoans

The minstrel show, presented by the Monroe Township Alumni Association, will give a second performance in Scioto Township school Thursday night.

The minstrel was first presented in Five Points Friday night, directed by Mrs. Herman Porter.

The cast included Robert Dick as interlocutor with Curtis Hix, Harry Bailey, Carroll Reis, David Stoer, Paul Jay Mills and Harmon Bach as end men.

Other members of the cast were Sue Neff, Mildred Furniss, Maxine Ankrom, Norma Jean Ankrom, Beverly Haller, Joan Hix, Myrtle Bach, Ruby Clark, Eleanor Ingman, Ethel Furniss, Ernestine Dudleson.

Norma Graham, Mildred Long, Phyllis Ford, Russell Caudy, Dwight Reid, Kenneth Reid, Raymond Reiterman, Jerry Rasor, Lyle Ingman and Turney Sheets.

Audience clowns were Harold Furniss, Bill Neff, Jay Davis and Arthur Dick, while Mary Catherine Dick played the hula-girl. Mrs. Bessie Schleich was pianist.

Hoosier Killed In Hotel Fire

PORTSMOUTH, April 11—An Indiana man was dead today from burns received when he apparently went to bed with a lit cigaret, starting a fire which burned out his room and drove 18 guests from Hotel Hurth here early yesterday.

The dead man is Paul J. Kidwell, 57, of Muncie, who died without regaining consciousness at 8:30 a. m. five hours after fire swept his room.

Fire Chief Howard Kiebler said that three firemen were forced to crawl on their hands and knees to reach the victim because of dense smoke which boiled from the sixth floor room.

County Students Set For Annual Spelling Contest

Pickaway County youngsters will meet in Jackson Township school at 1 p. m. Wednesday to find out who is the champion speller.

Superintendent George D. McDowell said the youngsters will take a written test first, followed by the oral "spelling bee".

"Just to make sure there are no perfect grades," said the superintendent, "I have selected several 'stumpers' to try them with.

"Whoever can spell a word such as 'intricacies' or other teasers probably will be the winner".

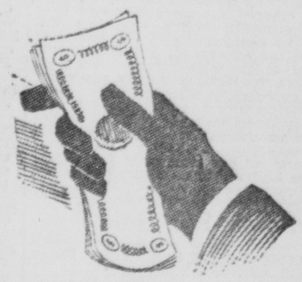

The county champion will compete for statewide honors in Columbus later.

AMERICA'S FINEST MEN Choose U. S. Army Careers

To win a place in America's new career Army, you must pass physical tests that are tougher than ever before—mental exams that are more difficult than ever before!

The new Army entrance exams are complete and effective. They closely test your personal fitness for an exacting role. Yet, once you've made the grade, you're set for the greatest career experience in the world! To be accepted by the Regular Army, you not only must be able to think clearly and react rapidly in emergency—but you must measure up to the physical standards set for men who lead vigorous, active lives.

With more rigid Army requirements, there is keener competition all around for assignment in the skilled technical and administrative specialties that make the Army great.

To give you a faster start in your chosen specialty, the Army maintains a schooling system with over 200 courses, and a new system of rewards and promotions, based on your initiative and ability. You make your own breaks in the Regular Army!

Here's a stirring challenge to the young man with an eye to the future! Why not learn if you can qualify? Call today.

HE DIDN'T WANT TO ENTER

Robert McClure Captures Kite-Flying Top Event

A chubby lad who did not want to enter the final event Saturday took top honors—and a nice camera as prize—at the kite-flying contest held Saturday afternoon in Pickaway Fairgrounds.

Winner of the event—the altitude test—was Robert McClure, a youngster who had picked up a couple of other prizes earlier in the competition, but who had decided to go home without competing for the coveted camera prize.

There was little doubt about young McClure winning as the ten minutes of the altitude test ticked away. His homemade kite climbed steadily, gave not one quivver and stood out well above the other entries.

Second prize went to Brent Bell whose kite got off to a slow start but could not match McClure's entry. Bell took home a baseball glove. Third prize, a fountain pen, went to Philip Wantz while the fourth prize, a new softball, went to Walter Sieverts.

THESE FOUR youths virtually dominated the competition.

In the strongest pull contest, Bell took another first prize when he topped competition in the younger age group flying kites three feet and over in length. The prize was a softball. Jerry Johnson won second and a toy gun. Carol Ann Johnson won third and an Alpine hat with ballpoint pen feather, and McClure took fourth and a box of candy.

Flying smaller kites, Flo Goldschmidt took first prize of a gold bracelet for the younger age group. Second prize of a ball bat went to Bell. In the older age group of the same classification of kites, Wantz was the winner of a new softball.

MISS GOLDSCHMIDT won the prize as the youngest girl entered in the competition with Brent Bell's kid brother, Brian, winning as the youngest boy entered. Each was given a football-shaped coin bank.

The kite fly was sponsored by Circleville Kiwanis Club and is the first of a series of annual Spring kite-flying contests.

Elinor Williams'

Teen Tips

Manners may seem just stuffy "do's" and "don't ti you, but actually people judge you by your manners all your life—in school, on dates, in your home, on a job and in social life.

So it's none too soon to polish up yours, for your own sake as well as for your friends' and dates' sake. They'll like you better if your manners are good, because the basis of correct manners is consideration for others. That's why you'll be more fun to be with if your manners are smooth.

When you're in a restaurant, snack shop or at a soda fountain, girls, your handbag, pocketbook, gloves and all other personal articles that you carry around with you should be out of sight, not on the table. It's not fair to others to clutter the table with your stuff. Etiquette says to keep them in your lap or, if there's room on the seat beside you or an empty chair at your table, put them there.

Goves and food just don't go together. Take yours off when you eat. . .and even when you sip a cold drink.

Keep your crumpled, soiled napkin in your lap until you leave the table. It's not appetizing to others to see it placed on the table before you leave.

Ice cream—how do you eat it? It's supposed to be put right into your little pink mouth, a spoonful at a time, not sucked from the spoon.

If you comb your hair at the table in restaurants, snack bars or anywhere else near food, you might just as well hang a big sign around your neck saying, "I'm thoughtless, unsanitary and know nothing about good manners!" Go to the powder room for hair-combing.

For tips on the correct, simple care of oily, blemished skin, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elinor Williams in care of The Circleville Herald.

Cigaret Blamed For House Fire

Circleville firemen were called to put out a blaze in the home of Homer Walters of 132 South Pickaway street Saturday night.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said the blaze was confined to the bathroom and that it apparently was caused by a cigaret igniting clothes hung up to dry. He estimated the damage at $75.

New Name List Is Awaited On Planning Panel

Mayor Thurman I. Miller reported Monday that progress on a drive to obtain four Circleville citizens to serve on a planning and zoning commission has come to a temporary standstill.

The mayor said he is waiting now for Councilman Robert Adkins to supply him with more names. At last council meeting Adkins said he had talked to a number of citizens who indicated they would be willing to serve on the commission.

He offered to supply a list of names to the mayor, and his offer was promptly accepted.

But out of the four names supplied, the mayor said only two accepted. They are Louis H. Mebs, local contractor, and Paul Johnson, office equipment dealer.

3 Drivers Fined Total Of $120 In Court Here

Three traffic violators were fined a total of $120 by Mayor Thurman I. Miller over the weekend.

Frank Walter Hanrahan, 57, of Groveport was fined $100 and costs Saturday. He was accused by State Highway Patrol C. E. Wells and Clyde Watters of operating a motor vehicle on U. S. Route 23 while intoxicated.

Francis Lloyd Orahood of Mansfield was fined $10 and cost for passing in a non-passing zone while operating a tractor and semi-trailer on U. S. Route 23.

Roy M. Murphy of Whitehall was accused of speeding on State Route 104. He was fined $10 and costs.

Prone Rifle Toga To Be Decided In Match On Evening Of April 20

Pickaway County's indoor prone rifle championship will be decided in Circleville Armory the evening of April 20.

Robert Bower won the three position title by virtue of high score for the season in South Central Ohio league contests.

M. F. Thornton was runner-up and held the lead until the last two matches of the year when he faltered and Bower passed him. Bower has taken possession of The Circleville Herald trophy.

The prone match, which is open to all shooters and must be fired with .22 calibre rifles, iron sights, will be a 30-shot affair, the title going to the holder of high score.

CHIEF CONTENDERS for the prone title are Jim Stout, Charles Rader, Robert Bower, Cecil Noecker and John Downs.

Circleville's outdoor team will be bolstered this year by the addition of D. E. Jacoby of Logan, one of the outstanding riflemen in the Midwest. Last year he fired with Columbus and was among the top five shooters in the CORL. He has a national rating of master, the highest obtainable.

Competing in the league this Summer along with Circleville will be the Tri-county team which as a Washington C. H. and Chillicothe aggregation won the championship last year.

Greenfield shooters have been added to the aggregation for this season. Others will be Columbus, Zanesville, Granville, Marysville and possibly Lancaster.

NEW STYLE PLAY CREDITED

Sammy Snead Slams Out Win In Masters Tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 11—Sam Snead closed the door on a closet full of golfing skeletons today and, as brilliant new Masters' champion for 1949, he turned the key in the lock.

Crediting a "new style of play—so deep I can't explain it," Snead smashed home the winner in the 13th annual Masters classic here yesterday after firing his second consecutive five-under-par 67 to post a 72-hole score of 282.

The lean, drawling West Virginian has been a great golfer for more years than it takes to tell. But he disqualified himself from a Western Open tournament once because his feet hurt him. He lost two U. S. Open championships because he couldn't even putt out of McGuffey's reader. He waxed hot one round and blew sky-high the next in one tournament after another.

And it seemed, for one long and horrifying moment yesterday, as if this was the old scene all over again.

ONE STROKE behind Johnny Palmer as the final round got underway, Sam went to the turn three strokes under par. He was leading the pack at that point. But he came up on the tenth green, needing a three-foot putt for a par. He blew it. He came up on the eleventh needing a four-footer, and he blew that, too.

This was it for Snead. But the "it' was something maybe even Slamming Sammy didn't expect. He drove dead for the pin for a birdie on twelve. He downed a twisting 18-foot putt for a birdie on thirteen. His famous wood and iron play carried him to within inches of an eagle on the fifteenth, and he calmly got his bird. He needed only straight pars on the last three holes to beat Lloyd Mangrum and Johnny Bulla by two strokes.

But Sam wasn't satisfied. He dropped a 20-foot putt on the eighteenth green for another bird.

The $2,500 first prize, which not only represented Snead's first triumph in the Masters' but his third straight victory on the current tournament circuit, boosted Sam's earnings for the year to $8,883.

Mangrum, who split second and third-place money with Bulla, and got $1,000 after his two under-par 70 and total score of 285 yesterday, still leads the pack with $9,608.

A 68 YESTERDAY put former U. S. Open Champion Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., next in the money with 289.

Hollywood's Joe Kirkwood Jr. followed with a 290. Former Champions Byron Nelson of Roanoke, Tex., and Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Cal., hung up 292 along with Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C.

Claude Harmon, defending champion from Mamaroneck, N. Y., carded a total 293. Oklahoma City's Charlie Coe and Johnny Dawson of Los Angeles took top amateur honors with 295s.

New College Grid League Talked

COLUMBUS, April 11—A University of Dayton graduate led the way today for the formation of a new college football conference in Ohio.

Charles W. Whalen, with the approval of the Flyers' athletic director, Harry Baujan, met this weekend in Columbus with representatives of Baldwin-Wallace and John Carroll universities Cleveland; the universities of Dayton, Toledo, Youngstown Akron and Xavier (Cincinnati).

Black Returns To Ohio Home

CLEVELAND, April 11—Doc Black, who has returned to his Cleveland home from the Cleveland Indians' Marianna, Fla. baseball school, expects to confer with President Bill Veeck sometime this week.

Black, who suffered a near-fatal brain hemorrhage last September, returned home Saturday but said that he does not intend to retire from baseball permanently.

Levine Favored Over Wagner

CLEVELAND, April 11—Brooklyn's Artie Levine and Portland's Dick Wagner tangle in Cleveland arena tonight, with Levine a 3-2 favorite to defeat Dynamite Dick, probably by a knockout.

Levine, who has fought in Cleveland on many occasions, has won six of his last seven bouts. He was decisioned by Chuck Hunter in his last fight.

Sokolsky's

"Hinduism: 'Let no man do to another what would be repugnant to himself.'

"Judaism: 'Take heed to thyself in all thy works, and be direct in all thy behavior, and what thou thyself hatest, do to no man.'

"Sikhism: 'As thou deemest thyself, so deem others. Then shalt thou become a partner in heaven.'

"Taoism: 'Rejoice at the success of others, and sympathize with their reverses, even as though you were in their place.'"

I was particularly interested in the outline of the subject faither:

"Our boys and girls need to understand that no life can be complete without faith in God. We may not all define God in the same terms; but at least we can agree that faith in God means faith in a power greater than ourselves, and that is the important thing."

The spiritual qualities stressed in this outline are "Appreciation Cooperation, Courage, Faith Generosity, Good Will, Honesty Kindness, Loyalty, Respect for law, responsibility, reverence," and if a child has lived through an experience with this outline, the benefits are incalculable. Los Angeles has shown the way.

Prone Rifle Toga To Be Decided In Match On Evening Of April 20

Pickaway County's indoor prone rifle championship will be decided in Circleville Armory the evening of April 20.

Robert Bower won the three position title by virtue of high score for the season in South Central Ohio league contests.

M. F. Thornton was runner-up and held the lead until the last two matches of the year when he faltered and Bower passed him. Bower has taken possession of The Circleville Herald trophy.

The prone match, which is open to all shooters and must be fired with .22 calibre rifles, iron sights, will be a 30-shot affair, the title going to the holder of high score.

CHIEF CONTENDERS for the prone title are Jim Stout, Charles Rader, Robert Bower, Cecil Noecker and John Downs.

Circleville's outdoor team will be bolstered this year by the addition of D. E. Jacoby of Logan, one of the outstanding riflemen in the Midwest. Last year he fired with Columbus and was among the top five shooters in the CORL. He has a national rating of master, the highest obtainable.

Competing in the league this summer along with Circleville will be the Tri-county team which as a Washington C. H. and Chillicothe aggregation won the championship last year.

Greenfield shooters have been added to the aggregation for this season. Others will be Columbus, Zanesville, Granville, Marysville and possibly Lancaster.

NEW STYLE PLAY CREDITED

Sammy Snead Slams Out Win In Masters Tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 11—Sam Snead closed the door on a closet full of golfing skeletons today and, as brilliant new Masters' champion for 1949, he turned the key in the lock.

Crediting a "new style of play—so deep I can't explain it," Snead smashed home the winner in the 13th annual Masters classic here yesterday after firing his second consecutive five-under-par 67 to post a 72-hole score of 282.

The lean, drawling West Virginian has been a great golfer for more years than it takes to tell. But he disqualified himself from a Western Open tournament once because his feet hurt him. He lost two U. S. Open championships because he couldn't even putt out of McGuffey's reader. He waxed hot one round and blew sky-high the next in one tournament after another.

And it seemed, for one long and horrifying moment yesterday, as if this was the old scene all over again.

ONE STROKE behind Johnny Palmer as the final round got underway, Sam went to the turn three strokes under par. He was leading the pack at that point. But he came up on the tenth green, needing a three-foot putt for a par. He blew it. He came up on the eleventh needing a four-footer, and he blew that, too.

This was it for Snead. But the "it" was something maybe even Slamming Sammy didn't expect He drove dead for the pin for a birdie on twelve. He downed a twisting 18-foot putt for a birdie on thirteen. His famous wood and iron play carried him to within inches of an eagle on the fifteenth, and he calmly got his bird. He needed only straight pars on the last three holes to beat Lloyd Mangrum and Johnny Bulla by two strokes.

But Sam wasn't satisfied. He dropped a 20-foot putt on the eighteenth green for another bird.

The $2,500 first prize, which not only represented Snead's first triumph in the Masters' but his third straight victory on the current tournament circuit, boosted Sam's earnings for the year to $8,883.

Mangrum, who split second and third-place money with Bulla, and got $1,000 after his two under-par 70 and total score of 285 yesterday, still leads the pack with $9,608.

A 68 YESTERDAY put former U. S. Open Champion Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., next in the money with 289.

Hollywood's Joe Kirkwood Jr. followed with a 290. Former Champions Byron Nelson of Roanoke, Tex., and Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Cal., hung up 292 along with Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C.

Claude Harmon, defending champion from Mamaroneck, N. Y., carded a total 293. Oklahoma City's Charlie Coe and Johnny Dawson of Los Angeles took top amateur honors with 295s.

New College Grid League Talked

COLUMBUS, April 11—A University of Dayton graduate led the way today for the formation of a new college football conference in Ohio.

Charles W. Whalen, with the approval of the Flyers' athletic director, Harry Baujan, met this weekend in Columbus with representatives of Baldwin-Wallace and John Carroll universities Cleveland; the universities of Dayton, Toledo, Youngstown Akron and Xavier (Cincinnati).

Black Returns To Ohio Home

CLEVELAND, April 11—Doc Black, who has returned to his Cleveland home from the Cleveland Indians' Marianna, Fla. baseball school, expects to confer with President Bill Veeck sometime this week.

Black, who suffered a near-fatal brain hemorrhage last September, returned home Saturday but said that he does not intend to retire from baseball permanently.

Levine Favored Over Wagner

CLEVELAND, April 11—Brooklyn's Artie Levine and Portland's Dick Wagner tangle in Cleveland arena tonight, with Levine a 3-2 favorite to defeat Dynamite Dick, probably by a knockout.

Levine, who has fought in Cleveland on many occasions has won six of his last seven bouts. He was decisioned by Chuck Hunter in his last fight

"Confuscianism: 'What you do not like when done to yourself do not do to others.'

"Hinduism: 'Let no man do to another what would be repugnant to himself.'

"Judaism: 'Take heed to thyself in all thy works, and be direct in all thy behavior, and what thou thyself hatest, do to no man.'

"Sikhism: 'As thou deemest thyself, so deem others. The shalt thou become a partner in heaven.'

"Taoism: 'Rejoice at the success of others, and sympathize with their reverses, even as you were in their place.'"

I was particularly interested in the outline of the subject faither:

"Our boys and girls need to understand that no life can be complete without faith in God. We may not all define God in the same terms; but at least we can agree that faith in God means faith in a power greater than ourselves, and that is the important thing."

The spiritual qualities stressed in this outline are "Appreciation Cooperation, Courage, Faith Generosity, Good Will, Honesty Kindness, Loyalty, Respect for law, responsibility, reverence," and if a child has lived through an experience with this outline, the benefits are incalculable. WOOD MEMORIAL IS NEXT

Odds On Olympia Drop For Coming Derby Trial

NEW YORK, April 11—The Winter book odds on Olympia, the current favorite for the Kentucky Derby, dropped to 11 to 5 today.

The seven-length triumph scored by the Fred W. Hooper colt in Experimental Handicap No. 2 at Jamaica Saturday strengthened the conviction of many turfmen that he will take a lot of beating in the run for the roses, even though the distance was three-sixteenths short of the Derby route.

Olympia now is being pointed for the Wood Memorial on April 23. That also is at a mile and a sixteenth.

Hooper's other Derby horse, Ocean Drive, will get his test today in the $10,000 Chesapeake Trial, the inaugural feature of the Havre de Grace meeting. Incidentally, a colt in this race, whose performance will be watched with interest, is Full Speed, a $41,000 son of Count Fleet who didn't get to the races last season but won his only start this year.

Ocean Drive beat Olympia in the Hibiscus Stakes at Hialeah during the Winter but has done little since. The relationship between the Hooper pair and Calumet's Citation and Coaltown a year ago is somewhat comparable, although Olympia is no Citation—yet.

OCEAN DRIVE, for instance, has shown no inclination to run more than six furlongs as yet, just as Coaltown was regarded as strictly a sprinter a year ago.

Nothing further on Ocean Drive's staying powers will be learned today, as the Chesapeake Trial is at six furlongs.

Olympia has earned a total of $230,332, with his second season hardly under way. Jockey Eddie Arcaro, who rode him Saturday, thinks he can go a mile and a quarter.

The Greentree Stable pair of Wine List and Capot are second choice in the Derby futures at 5 to 1. Model Cadet, who was second choice in the Derby futures at 5 to 1. Model Cadet, who was second to Olympia on both of the last two Saturdays, is 15 to 1. So is Old Rockport, who beat Ocean Drive in the Santa Anita Derby.

Incidentally, Old Rockport's owner, Clifford Mooers, is going to let Gordon Glisson, the sensational apprentice jockey, ride his star in the Derby. An opportunity to ride in the Blue Grass classic seldom is given an apprentice, although Ira Hanford scored, bug and all, with Bold Venture in 1936.

3 Local Teams Due For Tests On Tuesday

All three of Circleville's Spring sports are to be showing their wares Tuesday afternoon, two at home and one away.

Circleville high school baseball team will be looking for its first win of the season and its first league win when it travels to Wilmington for its third game. The game is slated for about 4 p. m.

The Tiger nine was shut out 4-0 in its season opener against London, and its second game, with Chillicothe, was called off because of darkness.

Tiger tracksters also will be looking for their first win of the season when they play host to the Pony Express cindermen from Huntington, W. Va. The meet is scheduled for about 2:30 p. m. on the local football field.

The local thinclads were trimmed in their season opener by 20 points at Westerville.

CHS golfers sport the only winning record to date this season, having copped their opener in a triangular match with Chillicothe and Lancaster.

The golfers were to have played Washington C. H. Saturday morning, but Washington begged off because it could field no team.

The Circleville foursome will be looking for its second win Tuesday when it plays host to Columbus North on the Pickaway Country Club course. The match probably will begin at about 3:30 p. m.

Lad, 25-Cent Pole Win Over 16-Pound Fish

A two-bit pole, a fat nightcrawler and a strong will netted a Circleville youngster a whopping big fish story and the laugh on his "fishin" uncle Saturday.

Albert McCain, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer McCain of 917 South Washington street, tied into a 16-pound carp Saturday, pitting his 98-pound frame into a tug-of-war with it.

The battle raged back and forth, boy half in the water, fish half out, until finally the 25-cent pole turned the tide and the fish lay flapping on the bank.

Albert said he took the beauty from Goodman's Pond off of Route 23, and gave his uncle, Tom McCain, the horselaugh.

"He bought himself a $15 outfit and hasn't caught anything yet", the lad haw-hawed.

Albert suggested his uncle come and see him the next time he goes fishing.

Brownies Book Exhibition Tilt

CLEVELAND, April 11—The Cleveland Browns, three-time All-America Conference football champions, will meet the New York Yankees in a pre-season game in the Rubber Bowl in Akron on Aug. 26.

The exhibition contest will give the Yankees another chance to win their first game from the Browns in three years. The New Yorkers have only one tie game to their credit in eight attempts.

The Browns defeated Buffalo, 35-21, last year in Akron.

Coach Paul Brown said the Browns will open their regular 1949 league schedule against the Baltimore Colts Sept. 11 in Cleveland.

Lively Ready As Reds Starter

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 11—Bud Lively was to start for Cincinnati today against the Montgomery, Ala., Rebels after the Mobile Bears held the Reds to an 11-inning 3-3 tie halted by darkness yesterday.

The Reds whitewashed the Bears 5-0 and 4-0 Friday and Saturday to take the three-game series from the minor league club.

The Reds scored their runs yesterday in the first two innings with singles from Jimmy Bloodworth and Charley Kress and a half dozen bases on balls.

Argentine Polo Might Displayed In 15-10 Win

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 11—The might of Argentina's top polo quartet was reflected today in a 15-to-10 beating the Pampas quartet handed the United States at Beverly Hills Club field yesterday.

The victory also added emphasis to the South American argument that the team which dropped a 10 to 9 decision to the North Americans a week earlier did not represent the full strength of the Argentine.

The game was watched by 15,000, an all-time record polo throng for South California.

Before the South Americans took the field it appeared as though the entire international series might be cancelled.

The Argentines insisted that yesterday's game was to be considered the first of the series of three to be played for the world title. Their arguments had been rejected last mid-week.

The South Americans went so far as to send their ponies back to the barns before it was agreed the game which they lost a week earlier was to be thrown out and the series started anew with their "full strength."

They meant by "full strength" the replacement of five-goal Nicholas Ruiz Guinazu by nine-goal Roberto Cavanagh, raising their rating four notches to 36 goals.

Cincy Assured Of Hockey Team

CINCINNATI, April 11 — A Cincinnati hockey team to open this Fall in the American League was practically "on ice" today after the Cincinnati All-Stars swept a weekend double header away from the Montreal Royals.

The all-stars socked out a 9-6 victory over the Royals yesterday. Saturday they won 8-7 on a sudden death overtime goal. Both teams are farm clubs of the Montreal Canadiens.

Frank Selke Jr. said those most likely to appear for Cincinnati in the Fall were Gerry MacNeil, Paul Bibeault, Joseph Lepine, Bob Friday, Tom Johnson, George Bougie and Ted Campeau.

Moore, Bivins Set For Bout

TOLEDO, April 11—Archie Moore of St. Louis, hot on a knockout rampage, meets Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland in a 10-round bout here tonight.

The 32-year-old Moore, ranked nigh among the light heavyweights, has knocked out his last five opponents and has won his last seven fights.

Bivins, ranked fifth among the heavyweights, has been up and down the ring ladder. He has fought Moore three times and came out the winner once.

Class D Baseball Chief Rules Umpires To Rate Full Politeness

LIMA, April 11—Spectators to Ohio-Indiana League baseball games this season may hear something like this:

Player to umpire:

"Sir, I believe there's been some mistake."

At least, League President Frank Colley said there'd be no profanity if he had anything to do about it.

Colley and league directors met here yesterday to get ready for the cry "play ball," which will ring throughout Buckeye and Hoosier Class D lots April 26.

The president said strict enforcement of eligibility rules and a ban on obscene language—by both players and managers—came as assurances from the meeting.

He said they even ruled out threatening gestures.

SEVERAL rules changes were explained to representatives from Lima, Zanesville, Newark, Springfield, Portsmouth and Marion, O., and Muncie and Richmond, Ind., clubs.

One of these involved an intentional pass pitch. Colley said new law requires a catcher to remain in the box until the pitcher starts the pass pitch. In such cases, he said, the ump will have to determine if the catcher stepped out of the box too soon. If sure, he may then call a balk.

Colley said nearly half of the complaint letters received last year concerned the use of obscene or profane language.

The president said "arguments are expected over close decisions, but they are not to be long and drawn out nor are profane language or threatening gestures to be used."

He said umps will be instructed to remove offending players.

Seems as if a man just doesn't have a chance anymore.

Official Prize List Awaited

ATLANTIC CITY, April 11—official list of prize winners in the American Bowling Congress tournament, which ended here Saturday night, will be issued after ABC auditors complete their compilation of scores.

The prize money will total approximately $375,000 for the 55-day tourney, which attracted some 30,000 bowlers. The scores were the lowest in many years. The winners and their scores were:

Singles—Bernard Rusche of St. Bernard, Ohio, with a 716 three-game series.

Doubles—Donald Van Boxel of Green Bay, Wis., and Gene Bernhardt of Sturgeon Bay, Wis. with 1,332.

All events—John Small of Chicago with 1,941.

Team—Jimmie Smith's five of South Bend, with 3,027.

Bearden Due For Test In Giants Battle

TEXARKANA, Tex., April 11 Gene Bearden, hero of the 1948 World Series, was to test his ailing right leg today when he takes the mound for the Cleveland Indians against the New York Giants here

Bearden, who was to see action for the first time in two weeks, pulled a muscle in his leg in an exhibition game. He probably will pitch four or five innings. Sam Zoldak was slated to relieve him.

The Indians' Spring series with the Giants ends next Sunday in the Polo Grounds in New York. The Tribe holds a 5-4 advantage with seven more exhibitions to go.

With the Spring season about to end and the regular session only a week off, Indian pitching is beginning to round into shape.

Bob Feller and Satchel Paige looked superb yesterday as they combined their efforts to shutout the Oklahoma City nine, 3-0, on four hits. Satch worked the first five frames, giving up two hits. He walked none and pitched to only 16 batters. Feller finished the game and likewise issued two bingles and gave up no walks.

Mike Garcia and Early Wynn also seem to be in top shape, in view of their mound stints Saturday when the Tribe blasted the Oklahoma club, 13-2.

The Redskins' batsmen, meanwhile, were collecting 10 hits off two Oklahoma pitchers. Manager Lou Boudreau, Bob Kennedy and Jim Hegan each had two hits. Hegan's pair of hits game him 14 for 36 times at bat this Spring for an average of .389.

Odds On Olympia Drop For Coming Derby Trial

NEW YORK, April 11—The Winter book odds on Olympia, the current favorite for the Kentucky Derby, dropped to 11 to 5 today.

The seven-length triumph scored by the Fred W. Hooper colt in Experimental Handicap No. 2 at Jamaica Saturday strengthened the conviction of many turfmen that he will take a lot of beating in the run for the roses, even though the distance was three-sixteenths short of the Derby route.

Olympia now is being pointed for the Wood Memorial on April 23. That also is at a mile and a sixteenth.

Hooper's other Derby horse, Ocean Drive, will get his test today in the $10,000 Chesapeake Trial, the inaugural feature of the Havre de Grace meeting. Incidentally, a colt in this race, whose performance will be watched with interest, is Full Speed, a $41,000 son of Count Fleet who didn't get to the races last season but won his only start this year.

Ocean Drive beat Olympia in the Hibiscus Stakes at Hialeah during the Winter but has done little since. The relationship between the Hooper pair and Calumet's Citation and Coaltown a year ago is somewhat comparable, although Olympia is no Citation—yet.

OCEAN DRIVE, for instance, has shown no inclination to run more than six furlongs as yet, just as Coaltown was regarded as strictly a sprinter a year ago.

Nothing further on Ocean Drive's staying powers will be learned today, as the Chesapeake Trial is at six furlongs.

Olympia has earned a total of $230,332, with his second season hardly under way. Jockey Eddie Arcaro, who rode him Saturday, thinks he can go a mile and a quarter.

The Greentree Stable pair of Wine List and Capot are second choice in the Derby futures at 5 to 1. Model Cadet, who was second choice in the Derby futures at 5 to 1. Model Cadet, who was second to Olympia on both of the last two Saturdays, is 15 to 1. So is Old Rockport, who beat Ocean Drive in the Santa Anita Derby.

Incidentally, Old Rockport's owner, Clifford Mooers, is going to let Gordon Glisson, the sensational apprentice jockey, ride his star in the Derby. An opportunity to ride in the Blue Grass classic seldom is given an apprentice, although Ira Hanford scored, bug and all, with Bold Venture in 1936.

3 Local Teams Due For Tests On Tuesday

All three of Circleville's Spring sports are to be showing their wares Tuesday afternoon, two at home and one away.

Circleville high school baseball team will be looking for its first win of the season and its first league win when it travels to Wilmington for its third game. The game is slated for about 4 p. m.

The Tiger nine was shut out 4-0 in its season opener against London, and its second game, with Chillicothe, was called off because of darkness.

Tiger tracksters also will be looking for their first win of the season when they play host to the Pony Express cindermen from Huntington, W. Va. The meet is scheduled for about 2:30 p. m. on the local football field.

The local thinclads were trimmed in their season opener by 20 points at Westerville.

CHS golfers sport the only winning record to date this season, having copped their opener in a triangular match with Chillicothe and Lancaster.

The golfers were to have played Washington C. H. Saturday morning, but Washington begged off because it could field no team.

The Circleville foursome will be looking for its second win Tuesday when it plays host to Columbus North on the Pickaway Country Club course. The match probably will begin at about 3:30 p. m.

Lad, 25-Cent Pole Win Over 16-Pound Fish

A two-bit pole, a fat nightcrawler and a strong will netted a Circleville youngster a whopping big fish story and the laugh on his "fishin" uncle Saturday.

Albert McCain, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer McCain of 917 South Washington street, tied into a 16-pound carp Saturday, pitting his 98-pound frame into a tug-of-war with it.

The battle raged back and forth, boy half in the water, fish half out, until finally the 25-cent pole turned the tide and the fish lay flapping on the bank.

Albert said he took the beauty from Goodman's Pond off of Route 23, and gave his uncle, Tom McCain, the horselaugh.

"He bought himself a $15 outfit and hasn't caught anything yet", the lad haw-hawed.

Albert suggested his uncle come and see him the next time he goes fishing.

Brownies Book Exhibition Tilt

CLEVELAND, April 11—The Cleveland Browns, three-time All-America Conference football champions, will meet the New York Yankees in a pre-season game in the Rubber Bowl in Akron on Aug. 26.

The exhibition contest will give the Yankees another chance to win their first game from the Browns in three years. The New Yorkers have only one tie game to their credit in eight attempts.

The Browns defeated Buffalo, 35-21, last year in Akron.

Coach Paul Brown said the Browns will open their regular 1949 league schedule against the Baltimore Colts Sept. 11 in Cleveland.

Lively Ready As Reds Starter

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 11—Bud Lively was to start for Cincinnati today against the Montgomery, Ala., Rebels after the Mobile Bears held the Reds to an 11-inning 3-3 tie halted by darkness yesterday.

The Reds whitewashed the Bears 5-0 and 4-0 Friday and Saturday to take the three-game series from the minor league club.

The Reds scored their runs yesterday in the first two innings with singles from Jimmy Bloodworth and Charley Kress and a half dozen bases on balls.

Argentine Polo Might Displayed In 15-10 Win

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 11—The might of Argentina's top polo quartet was reflected today in a 15-to-10 beating the Pampas quartet handed the United States at Beverly Hills Club field yesterday.

The victory also added emphasis to the South American argument that the team which dropped a 10 to 9 decision to the North Americans a week earlier did not represent the full strength of the Argentine.

The game was watched by 15,000, an all-time record polo throng for South California.

Before the South Americans took the field it appeared as though the entire international series might be cancelled.

The Argentines insisted that yesterday's game was to be considered the first of the series of three to be played for the world title. Their arguments had been rejected last mid-week.

The South Americans went so far as to send their ponies back to the barns before it was agreed the game which they lost a week earlier was to be thrown out and the series started anew with their "full strength."

They meant by "full strength" the replacement of five-goal Nicholas Ruiz Guinazu by nine-goal Roberto Cavanagh, raising their rating four notches to 36 goals.

Cincy Assured Of Hockey Team

CINCINNATI, April 11 — A Cincinnati hockey team to open this Fall in the American League was practically "on ice" today after the Cincinnati All-Stars swept a weekend double header away from the Montreal Royals.

The all-stars socked out a 9-6 victory over the Royals yesterday. Saturday they won 8-7 on a sudden death overtime goal. Both teams are farm clubs of the Montreal Canadiens.

Frank Selke Jr. said those most likely to appear for Cincinnati in the Fall were Gerry MacNeil, Paul Bibeault, Joseph Lepine, Bob Friday, Tom Johnson, George Bougie and Ted Campeau.

Moore, Bivins Set For Bout

TOLEDO, April 11—Archie Moore of St. Louis, hot on a knockout rampage, meets Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland in a 10-round bout here tonight.

The 32-year-old Moore, ranked nigh among the light heavyweights, has knocked out his last five opponents and has won his last seven fights.

Bivins, ranked fifth among the heavyweights, has been up and down the ring ladder. He has fought Moore three times and came out the winner once.

Class D Baseball Chief Rules Umpires To Rate Full Politeness

LIMA, April 11—Spectators to Ohio-Indiana League baseball games this season may hear something like this:

Player to umpire:

"Sir, I believe there's been some mistake."

Colley and league directors met here yesterday to get ready for the cry "play ball," which will ring throughout Buckeye and Hoosier Class D lots April 26.

VA Makes Major Change In Regulations

GI Training Leave Rule Is Altered

County Aide Tells How Plan Works

Two major changes in leave policies affecting veterans training under the GI Bill of Rights in job-training establishments and in schools below the college level were announced Monday by James P. Shea, Pickaway County veterans service officer.

The changes are:

1. Allowing these veterans to apply for 15 days' leave at the end of their period of enrollment, in addition to whatever leave they might have been authorized while in training.

2. Placing full responsibility for granting leaves of absence taken during training—within a limit of 30 days a year—upon schools below college level and job-training establishments. This responsibility does not extend to the 15 days given at the end of an enrollment period.

Leave at the completion of enrollment periods may be obtained only if the veteran has enough remaining entitlement time to cover the requested leave, Shea said the Veterans Administration has ruled.

Under the new policy, leave taken during training now becomes a matter strictly between the veteran and his school or employer-trainer.

Only absences to be reported to Veterans Administration in the future are those considered by the school or establishment to be unauthorized, as well as time off in excess of 30 days in a calendar year, exclusive of Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

These reports are necessary so that VA may make appropriate reductions in veterans' subsistence allowances, Shea explained.

VA emphasizes that all schools —including colleges—are to continue to nofity VA of all interruptions in training.

Bloomfield Club Holds Session

Rosemary Wright, president of South Bloomfield 4-H Club, directed a recent club meeting with all members present.

Nancy Jo Cromley read the secretarial report. A constitution for the club was drawn up. The group decided to purchase flowers for Wilma Glendon who is a patient in a hospital and to prepare a fruit basket for Martha Hoover who also is ill.

Meetings will be held on alternate Wednesdays at 7:30 p. m. until school is out for Summer vacation. An Easter party with an egg hunt was booked for April 20 in the school building.

Probe Sought Of Highway Jobs

COLUMBUS, April 11—State Rep. Earl M. Baughman of Athens County asked the Civil Service Commission today to investigate Gov. Frank Lausche "and his satellites in Division 10" of the state highway department.

Baughman, from Albany, charged that the chief executive and Otho Castle, personnel director of Division 10, have brought pressure to bear on employes to make way for Democrats.

Division 10 embraces the counties of Gallia, Meigs, Athens, Vinton, Hocking, Washington, Morgan, Noble and Monroe.

Key West, Fla., is the most southerly city of the United States.

Russian Policy Is Hit Sharply By British Chief

GLASGOW, April 11—Russian policy, in the opinion of British Prime Minister Attlee, "would be laughable if it weren't so tragic."

In an address before a Labor Party rally here last night, the British leader called Soviet criticism of the Atlantic Pact "a Nazi tactic," and charged Russia opposed the Marshall Plan in order to keep Europe impoverished. He also said:

"The responsibility for dividing the world rests squarely on the shoulder of the rulers of the Kremlin.'

Attlee declared that the British people support the week-old Atlantic pact with the exception of "Communists, fellow travelers and a few eccentrics whose hostility to the United States blinds them to reality." He added:

"There is no personal freedom in Russia. There is the all-pervading oppression by the police. There is no freedom of election. Only a single list and a single party are allowed.

"All opposition opinion is crushed. There is no freedom of speech or even thought. Even football players must be orthodox Marxist-Leninists."

Trio Injured In Munich Riot

MUNICH, April 11—Three persons were hospitalized today in the wake of a riot by more than 10,000 displaced persons from Eastern Europe who staged a wild anti-Soviet demonstration at the Russian mission building here.

American occupation troops with seven light tanks used gas and bayonets to break up the demonstration Sunday in defending the mission building which later was found to have been secretly evacuated by the Russiasn.

The DPS were led by seven mounted Cossacks in native costume who carried the flags of the Ukraine, Hungary, Lithuania and Latvia.

A manufacturer of modern gas ranges demonstrated that his range could be taken apart, every component part being demountable.

NOT SINCE the boyish bob has anything like the "feminine crew cut" come along to rob the fair sex of their "crowning glory." Here, in one of its more alluring forms, it is introduced by musical star Mary Martin. She found the collegiate style helped overcome a hair-dressing problem in a new musical show, and now it's likely to become a hair-do rage. (International)

Baker's Home Is Robbed Of $35,000 In Gems

COLUMBUS, April 11—Columbus police reported that the home of O. G. Munn, owner of a wholesale pie bakery, was looted early today ot $35,000 mostly in jewelry.

Detectives Robert Brodt and Herbert Fisher said the burglars entered with a pass key or through a partially-opened door, then ransacked the five-room apartment.

Munn said most of the jewelry was insured. He said two automatic pistols and motion picture camera equipmet valued at more than $1,000 were included in the stolen articles.

The most valuable single item lost, he said, was a $5,000 ring.

The detectives said the jewelry was taken from a dresser drawer in a bedroom. Among the items were rings, clips, earrings, pins and necklaces. Munn was visiting his nephew, who manages the pie firm.

Mystery Shrouds Condition Of James Forrestal

WASHINGTON, April 11 — Strange mystery today surrounded the condition of Former Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal who is in the U. S. naval hospital at nearby Bethesda, Md.

A high cabinet member, who declined to be identified, said Forrestal had suffered a "complete nervous breakdown" while vacationing at Hobe Sound, Fla.

In a radio broadcast last night, Commentator Drew Pearson declared that Forrestal had "lost his mind" as the result of the "nervous breakdown."

The commentator declared that while in the South, Forrestal had heard a fire whistle scream and that he had then run from the house crying "about Russia."

Pearson said President Truman had been aware of Forrestal's condition "for some time" before the former defense secretary resigned.

When Forrestal was flown to the hospital last week, according to well-informed sources, Louis Johnson, his successor, called a conference of top service officials, particularly the Navy. Johnson reportedly swore them to secrecy about Forrestal's condition and what happened in Florida.

This prevents the story from being told. Officers contacted say they either don't know anything about the case or that they can't talk about it.

A reply of "no comment" also came from Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross when questioned about the former defense chief.

When Forrestal was brought back from Florida, his physician, Dr. B. W. Hogan, denied there was anything seriously wrong with him. Dr. Hogan said Forrestal merely needed a "complete rest."

Racing Driver Said Deserter

CLEVELAND, April 11—Bernard Wayne Kelley, 32-year old miget auto driver from Lansing, Mich., was held by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation today on a charge of being a deserter from the United States Army.

FBI officials, who picked up Kelley at Sportsman Park in suburban Beford, said that he had been sought since Feb. 20, 1942, when he deserted from the Army in Fort Wayne, Ind.

Kelley revealed that he had been traveling around the country for several years, in which time he made between $9,000 and $14,000 annually as a midget auto racer. He is married and has one child.

The name Micah is a contraction of Micaiah, and means "Who is like unto the Lord."

Ohioan Treated After Collapse

PITTSBURGH, April 11 — A graying, 50-year-old woman who claims she works in Columbus, O., was in a Pittsburgh hospital today suffering from either hysteria or amnesia.

The patient, Mrs. Margaret Blaylock, told police her address was 1525 North High Street and that she was employed in University hospital, Columbus.

Mrs. Blaylock said she was en route to Washington, D. C., but was unable to explain how she got to nearby Carnegie where she collapsed in a sandwich shop.

The changes are:

1. Allowing these veterans to apply for 15 days' leave at the end of their period of enrollment, in addition to whatever leave they might have been authorized while in training.

2. Placing full responsibility for granting leaves of absence taken during training—within a limit of 30 days a year—upon schools below college level and job-training establishments. This responsibility does not extend to the 15 days given at the end of an enrollment period.

Leave at the completion of enrollment periods may be obtained only if the veteran has enough remaining entitlement time to cover the requested leave, Shea said the Veterans Administration has ruled.

Under the new policy, leave taken during training now becomes a matter strictly between the veteran and his school or employer-trainer.

Only absences to be reported to Veterans Administration in the future are those considered by the school or establishment to be unauthorized, as well as time off in excess of 30 days in a calendar year, exclusive of Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

These reports are necessary so that VA may make appropriate reductions in veterans' subsistence allowances, Shea explained.

VA emphasizes that all schools —including colleges—are to continue to nofity VA of all interruptions in training.

Bloomfield Club Holds Session

Rosemary Wright, president of South Bloomfield 4-H Club, directed a recent club meeting with all members present.

Nancy Jo Cromley read the secretarial report. A constitution for the club was drawn up. The group decided to purchase flowers for Wilma Glendon who is a patient in a hospital and to prepare a fruit basket for Martha Hoover who also is ill.

Meetings will be held on alternate Wednesdays at 7:30 p. m. until school is out for Summer vacation. An Easter party with an egg hunt was booked for April 20 in the school building.

Probe Sought Of Highway Jobs

COLUMBUS, April 11—State Rep. Earl M. Baughman of Athens County asked the Civil Service Commission today to investigate Gov. Frank Lausche "and his satellites in Division 10" of the state highway department.

Baughman, from Albany, charged that the chief executive and Otho Castle, personnel director of Division 10, have brought pressure to bear on employes to make way for Democrats.

Division 10 embraces the counties of Gallia, Meigs, Athens, Vinton, Hocking, Washington, Morgan, Noble and Monroe.

Key West, Fla., is the most southerly city of the United States.

Russian Policy Is Hit Sharply By British Chief

GLASGOW, April 11—Russian policy, in the opinion of British Prime Minister Attlee, "would be laughable if it weren't so tragic."

In an address before a Labor Party rally here last night, the British leader called Soviet criticism of the Atlantic Pact "a Nazi tactic," and charged Russia opposed the Marshall Plan in order to keep Europe impoverished. He also said:

"The responsibility for dividing the world rests squarely on the shoulder of the rulers of the Kremlin.'

Attlee declared that the British people support the week-old Atlantic pact with the exception of "Communists, fellow travelers and a few eccentrics whose hostility to the United States blinds them to reality." He added:

"There is no personal freedom in Russia. There is the all-pervading oppression by the police. There is no freedom of election. Only a single list and a single party are allowed.

"All opposition opinion is crushed. There is no freedom of speech or even thought. Even football players must be orthodox Marxist-Leninists."

Trio Injured In Munich Riot

MUNICH, April 11—Three persons were hospitalized today in the wake of a riot by more than 10,000 displaced persons from Eastern Europe who staged a wild anti-Soviet demonstration at the Russian mission building here.

American occupation troops with seven light tanks used gas and bayonets to break up the demonstration Sunday in defending the mission building which later was found to have been secretly evacuated by the Russians.

The DPS were led by seven mounted Cossacks in native costume who carried the flags of the Ukraine, Hungary, Lithuania and Latvia.

A manufacturer of modern gas ranges demonstrated that his range could be taken apart, every component part being demountable.

NOT SINCE the boyish bob has anything like the "feminine crew cut" come along to rob the fair sex of their "crowning glory." Here, in one of its more alluring forms, it is introduced by musical star Mary Martin. She found the collegiate style helped overcome a hair-dressing problem in a new musical show, and now it's likely to become a hair-do rage. (International)

Baker's Home Is Robbed Of $35,000 In Gems

COLUMBUS, April 11—Columbus police reported that the home of O. G. Munn, owner of a wholesale pie bakery, was looted early today ot $35,000 mostly in jewelry.

Detectives Robert Brodt and Herbert Fisher said the burglars entered with a pass key or through a partially-opened door, then ransacked the five-room apartment.

Munn said most of the jewelry was insured. He said two automatic pistols and motion picture camera equipmet valued at more than $1,000 were included in the stolen articles.

The most valuable single item lost, he said, was a $5,000 ring.

The detectives said the jewelry was taken from a dresser drawer in a bedroom. Among the items were rings, clips, earrings, pins and necklaces. Munn was visiting his nephew, who manages the pie firm.

Mystery Shrouds Condition Of James Forrestal

WASHINGTON, April 11 — Strange mystery today surrounded the condition of Former Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal who is in the U. S. naval hospital at nearby Bethesda, Md.

A high cabinet member, who declined to be identified, said Forrestal had suffered a "complete nervous breakdown" while vacationing at Hobe Sound, Fla.

In a radio broadcast last night, Commentator Drew Pearson declared that Forrestal had "lost his mind" as the result of the "nervous breakdown."

The commentator declared that while in the South, Forrestal had heard a fire whistle scream and that he had then run from the house crying "about Russia."

Pearson said President Truman had been aware of Forrestal's condition "for some time" before the former defense secretary resigned.

When Forrestal was flown to the hospital last week, according to well-informed sources, Louis Johnson, his successor, called a conference of top service officials, particularly the Navy. Johnson reportedly swore them to secrecy about Forrestal's condition and what happened in Florida.

This prevents the story from being told. Officers contacted say they either don't know anything about the case or that they can't talk about it.

A reply of "no comment" also came from Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross when questioned about the former defense chief.

When Forrestal was brought back from Florida, his physician, Dr. B. W. Hogan, denied there was anything seriously wrong with him. Dr. Hogan said Forrestal merely needed a "complete rest."

Racing Driver Said Deserter

CLEVELAND, April 11—Bernard Wayne Kelley, 32-year old miget auto driver from Lansing, Mich., was held by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation today on a charge of being a deserter from the United States Army.

FBI officials, who picked up Kelley at Sportsman Park in suburban Beford, said that he had been sought since Feb. 20, 1942, when he deserted from the Army in Fort Wayne, Ind.

Kelley revealed that he had been traveling around the country for several years, in which time he made between $9,000 and $14,000 annually as a midget auto racer. He is married and has one child.

The name Micah is a contraction of Micaiah, and means "Who is like unto the Lord."

Ohioan Treated After Collapse

PITTSBURGH, April 11 — A graying, 50-year-old woman who claims she works in Columbus, O., was in a Pittsburgh hospital today suffering from either hysteria or amnesia.

The patient, Mrs. Margaret Blaylock, told police her address was 1525 North High Street and that she was employed in University hospital, Columbus.

Mrs. Blaylock said she was en route to Washington, D. C., but was unable to explain how she got to nearby Carnegie where she collapsed in a sandwich shop.
